WORKMEN INJURED

In Collapse of Old Howe Street Building

Two in Hospital Will Recover—Fire Started Later—Total Damage Estimated at $250,000—Collapse Had Been Expected—Inspector Dow Says Building Should Have Been Condemned Ten Years Ago

With a mighty roar and a crash that struck terror to the hearts of all who heard them the unsightly and malodorous frame tannery building in Howe street collapsed about 5 o'clock last evening, enveloping two workmen in a pile of debris and endangering the lives of several others. By one of those inexplicable freaks of fate the disaster held off just long enough to permit a large gang of men who had been working there, to clear the doomed building, for had the accident occurred 15 minutes earlier serious loss of life undoubtedly would have resulted.

The injured are:

Peter Rivet of 352 Stackpole street, a broken rib, abrasions in the back and injuries to the left hip and thigh, taken to St. John's hospital.

George Lewis, a Greek, of 578 Market street, abrasions in the back and three fingers crushed, taken to St. John's hospital.

Stephen K. Chase, of Mt. Hope street, abrasions in left arm, left knee and head, and wrenched shoulder, taken to his home.

Patriek Regan, John King and one McMullin escaped injury by jumping from a second story window.

An hour after the collapse of the building a fire broke out in the debris and caused, it is alleged, a loss of about $250,000, a large stock of valuable hides being destroyed by fire and water.

DENOUNCED AS A MENACE TO PUBLIC HEALTH.

The residents in the vicinity of the Howe street tannery say that it is an intolerable nuisance that should have been condemned many years ago. It has rendered some property in the vicinity uninhabitable and greatly reduced the value of other property. The people are hoping that this accident will result in the removal of the tannery to the outskirts of the city where it will not be a menace to public health.

Story of the Accident

The old building on Howe street is owned and used by the American Hide & Leather Company for the sorting, trimming and cleaning of hides, and has long been a nuisance to that section of the community. The building was a ramshackle affair, originally a few stories high and with an aspect from the street similar to that of the celebrated leaning tower of Pisa. The outer walls consisted of shutters which were opened to let in the air and let out a most nauseating odor that found its way into every home in the neighborhood from time to time.

The accident occurred with only the warning of a second or more. With the exception of Rivet, the men mentioned above were in the building sorting hides, while Rivet was standing in his wagon in Howe street unloading more hides.

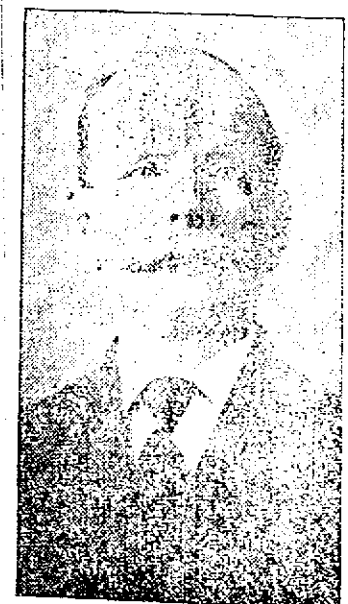

Suddenly a crash was heard followed by a most unusual roaring sound and then the entire Howe street end of the building came down in a heap, crashing through the smaller buildings adjoining it and tearing down the telegraph poles and wires in front of the building in Howe street.

Those nearby were horrified to see the forms of two men hurled down under the tons of debris. The crash of the collapse was heard throughout the district and in a twinkling Howe and East Merrimack streets were filled with terror-stricken people. The women and children of the Polish colony nearby, whose husbands and fathers, in many cases, were employed in the tannery, poured into the streets screaming with terror. An ambulance call was sent in followed by a fire alarm from box 131, while hundreds started the work of rescuing the men under the debris, who could be plainly seen. Officers David Hogan, George W. Enright and Ernest Bertrand were among the first on the scene, as were Rev. Fr. Sullivan, O. M. I., and Tighe, O. M. I., of the immediate congregation and Sacred Heart church, respectively.

Joined with the other employees of the tannery, they went fearlessly into the ruins and in a few minutes pulled the injured men to a place of safety.

The two ambulances, one driven by Dr. J. H. Sparks himself, were quickly on the scene, for Dr. Sparks upon learning that several men had been injured, having no driver in his stable, left the time for the ruins himself, while the fire department also responded. At that time there was no fire but the ladders were used to good advantage.

In a short time the injured men were carried to St. John's hospital, except Mr. Chase, who decided to go home, while Arthur Merrill, superintendent of the building, looked up the roster of his employees and made the statement that everyone had been taken out and that all had been accounted for.

JAMES R. DOW, Supt. Lewis and Building.

of the disaster, appeared on the scene, excitedly inquiring for the injured.

COMPLAINTS MADE

Against Howe Street Tannery as a Menace to Public Health

Dr. Simpson and Agent Bates Visited Building But Nothing Was Done—Complaints Were Made 10 Years Ago on Account of the Foul Odors

Complaints relative to the stench it gave off and on for years. Several suggestions have been made, and years ago a very strenuous effort was made and at times the city owners of numerous small lots, including the inspectors, that the stench complained of was not coming from the tannery, but from the privy vaults on tenant property. Several complaints have since been made and the premises have been visited several times by the local board of health and by Dr. Simpson of the state board.

JEWISH FAMILIES

TO BE PERMITTED TO GO TO PALESTINE

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—A despatch has been received in London from Constantinople stating that, in accordance with their request, the Turkish government has granted permission to the 10,000 Jewish families of Russia, who recently organized for the purpose, to settle in Palestine and Syria.

This request of the government was addressed before the restrictions against Jewish immigration were abolished in Turkey. The abolition of these restrictions is coincident with the granting of this request.

Since the establishment of the constitutional government in Turkey, many Jewish families in Russia have been planning to emigrate to Palestine, and associating for the purpose of land and for settlement in the Holy Land were organized in many cities.

The 10,000 families in question represent the association of several cities.

SNAPSHOTS AT HARRIMAN FUNERAL: FIVE OF HIS BUSINESS ASSOCIATES

Lowell, Sept. 15.—Prominent among the few business associates of the late Edward H. Harriman, who attended his funeral were the five men in the accompanying group. They are: No. 1, Jacob H. Schiff; No. 2, Morris H. Huggins; No. 3, F. P. Loring; No. 4, John W. Stebbins; No. 5, Julius Kruttschnitt. These men, with Judge Robert S. Lovett, now have practically in charge the vast affairs of the dead financier. The future plan of operating his railroads is not known at present to any one, not even those men who were his close associates in life. It is known that Mr. Harriman's affairs were in perfect shape, but the independent and collective operation of the railroads which he controlled and those lines in which he held other interests, is such a tremendous undertaking that the problem probably will not be worked out for many months.

from which it sprang. There has never been a banquet in the city perhaps at which a body of men so that was more representative of the business and social life of the community. And over and above all spread the influence of the Harriman family.

speech was at his emphatic reference to the just and impartial enforcement of the law to weak and strong alike. As the president thundered out his periods on this subject, his judicial training and inherent respect for the law stood out all over him, and carried to the audience an impression that on law enforcement there was a man in the president's chair who, when the occasion arose, would be as unflinching as adamant.

The tariff, to the making of which Governor Draper had paid the president a well-earned compliment, came in for but brief and hurried mention. President Taft said he would avoid that subject here in the east, as he needed some ammunition for his western speech-making tour.

Dreaded the Trip

A laughable incident that tickled the president almost as much as it did the diners was when in telling of his coming tour of the west the president hesitated when he came to the figures for the mileage and laughingly said that he thought it was 17,000 rather than 12,000 miles he would have to travel, and laughingly added that sometimes secretaries are great helps.

The president referred to the coming trip as one that he dreaded, yet at the same time anticipated with pleasure. It would give to the people of the country the chance to see the man whom they had chosen to act temporarily as the nation's executive. And it would also give him the opportunity of personally meeting multitudes of citizens and telling them the views of a responsible executive on important questions as against the views of irresponsible critics.

The president said that some time ago he had been waited on by a committee of the chamber of commerce, headed by Frederick P. Fish, and asked to make an address at the dinner. Bearing in mind the endless amount of talk he would have to do on his western trip, he told the committee that he feared he would run out of material. To this Mr. Fish said that he would be expected to make only a commonplace speech.

Checking over his interpretation, the president said that he was making a commonplace speech, and if it did not hit the diners right they could not blame him, as he was only following out instructions of the committee.

As he warmed into his speech Mr. Taft departed from his humorous vein and spoke deeply and emphatically of the pertinent questions now before the country for solution. He put special emphasis on the hope that the country might soon have a solid monetary policy and paid extended compliment to Senator Nelson Aldrich for his knowledge of and efforts for monetary reform.

The president spoke a little more than half an hour and closed with wishes for the future of the chamber of commerce organization and the welfare of the entire country. At the close of his speech the president left the hall by the West Newton street entrance and entering the carriage drawn by four beautiful bays was escorted by the Lancers to the Touraine for the night.

FERON REFUSES

To Return Without Extradition Papers

Henri Feron, the alleged murderer of Mrs. Flora Rivers, who was arrested in Megantle, P. Q., has now refused to come back to Lowell until formal extradition papers are issued. Deputy Welch who went to Megantle, Sunday, told that Feron would accompany him back to Lowell without any trouble, but yesterday he notified Acting Supt. Brosnan that Feron had refused to go back without the formality of extradition papers.

District Attorney Higgins was notified at once and the papers will be made out with all speed, forwarded to Washington for official signatures and within 10 days it is expected that Feron will be on his way here.

DEATH OF WOMAN

To be Investigated by the
Town Officials

MILFORD, N. H., Sept. 15.—The authorities of Milford and Mount Vernon, a village near here, are investigating the death of Mrs. Mary Jane Dalton Douthett, aged 50 years, wife of Harry Douthett of Mount Vernon. By order of the town officials, the funeral, which was to have been held today from the rooms of a Milford undertaker, has been deferred to enable the medical referee to examine the body.

Mrs. Douthett was found in bed in an unconscious condition last Saturday night by her husband. There was a long black bruise under the woman's ear, extending down the neck. Investigating further, Douthett found part of his wife's set of false teeth outside the house near the doorstep. At the time the town officials suspected that death was due to natural causes.

Yesterday Constable John Hollands of Mount Vernon, who had been informed of the disappearance on the neck of Mrs. Douthett, began an investigation. He came here and consulted Chief of Police James W. Ryan, of Milford. Chief Ryan decided to refuse to permit the funeral today, and the medical referee and other authorities of Hillsborough county were notified.

It is reported that a man was seen near the Douthett house Saturday afternoon acting peculiarly.

JAMES J. HILL
Says That Agriculture Must be Developed

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Warning that the United States may soon cease to be an exporter of foodstuffs was given to the American Bankers' association yesterday by James J. Hill, chairman of the board of the Great Northern railway.

All through the address Mr. Hill sought to impress on the banker delegates that future prosperity is to come in the development of agriculture rather than in an extension of foreign markets for manufactured goods. The speech was received with deep attention by the delegates. It followed an address by Lawrence O. Murray, comptroller of the currency, which emphasized the necessity of co-operation between the comptroller and the national bank examiners, and pointed out that the examinations have been raised from a perfunctory review to a systematic investigation by trained officers.

Earlier in the day in his annual address President George M. Reynolds declared in favor of a central bank with a capitalization of not less than $100,000,000 as a means of assuring financial disaster similar to the panic of 1907.

The delegates were welcomed to Illinois and Chicago by Gov. Charles S. Deneen and Joseph T. Talbot, president of the Chicago Clearing House association.

A pause in the regular program of the day was made to recall Speaker Cannon to address the bankers and later the reports of the secretary and treasurer were read, showing the association in point of membership and financial standing to be in excellent condition.

Some criticism of the express companies acting in a dual capacity as bankers and carriers was included in the report of the express companies and money order committee, which revealed the course of the litigation by which the association is seeking to oust the express companies from the banking field.

The resolutions adopted at the conference on the subject of Monday will be taken up later in the convention.

At the closing session of the convention of the National Association of Supervisors, resolutions were adopted favoring the plan of Comptroller Murray for co-operation between the state and national bank examiners and a general discussion of financial questions was held.

While no definite announcement has been made, it is generally understood that the next president of the American Bankers' association will be Lewis E. Pierson, president of the Irving National bank of New York, now vice president of the organization.

BIG RAILWAY
WAS PURCHASED BY AMERICAN AMBASSADOR

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 15.—David E. Thompson, United States ambassador to Mexico, yesterday secured control of the Pan-American railway, a line extending from San Antonio, on the Tehuantepec National railway to Mexico, a town on the Mexican-Guatemalan frontier. Ambassador Thompson did not make public the purchase price but said that he would have the controlling interest in the property, having secured by purchase $2,000,000 worth of the stock. The line, which is 241 miles in length, was formerly owned by Los Angeles and St. Louis capitalists.

It is said in railway circles here that the road will come up to be a part of the greater Pan-American line which will afford an all-rail connection between the canal zone and the principal regions of the United States.

CHAS. F. McKIM
NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Charles F. McKim, head of the firm of McKim, Mead & White, architects, died suddenly yesterday at his country home in St. James, Long Island, of heart disease. He had been in ill health for a year or more, but his death was unexpected.

Mr. McKim, who was 72 years old, was a graduate of the Lawrence Scientific school, Harvard, and of the Ecole des Beaux Arts, Paris. He had received the architectural degree from Harvard, and had been a member of the American Institute of Architects since 1887.

Mr. McKim was a member of many societies, and was one of the founders of the American Museum of Natural History, and of the New York Life Assurance company, and of the New York City and County Hospital.

O'LEARY PUTS UP

The Veteran Pedestrian Deposits $100 Forfeit

"If any young man wants to walk with me,"

He'll find I'm as young as I used to be."

Thus sang Dan O'Leary, the world's champion pedestrian as he walked into the Sun apartment this morning and laid down $100 beautiful dollars on the sportsman's desk.

Last Thursday at the Marathon run Mr. O'Leary said that he would walk six miles while any one of the Marathoners ran 10 miles for $500 a side, or any part of it.

Yesterday The Sun printed a letter from Charles E. Holste of Boston accepting O'Leary's challenge to the extent of $200, on behalf of some runner whom he has yet to name.

Bright and early this morning O'Leary was in The Sun office with $100 as a forfeit to bind a match.

"There's my forfeit for a match for $200, and he can make it $500 if he wants to. I'll cover the money," said Dan.

Mr. Holste in his letter in The Sun intimated that Dan wasn't as good as he used to be and he wrote also: "Dan must be like old wine, improving with age."

In reply Mr. O'Leary has this to say: "In the old days Mr. Holste was one of the best short distance walkers in the world. But he has been in the American many years and like the American must be like he has given all this time and attention to business rather than to his stomach and his physical exercise, and the result is he is growing old and thinks everyone else is. Too much attention to business at the expense of exercise pulls a man out too quickly. We have a striking example of the truth of this in the death of Harriman. I am now 65 years of age and I have plenty enough to claim that I can still walk six miles while a runner goes ten, and I am willing to give up $500 to have it proved that I'm wrong. Thirty-one years ago I won the Ashly cup in London in the first six days' go-as-you-please race ever run. I was the only American in the race and beat out a field of 24 Englishmen. I walked 2505 miles in 12 hours and the second man completed an even 500 miles. Since then I have kept at it constantly and I never felt better in my life than I do today. I am not the fastest walker that ever stepped a mile, but I am a steady walker. I could do 14 miles in two hours easily in these days, while my friend Holste who was once a great old and thinks I have, too, could go 14 miles in that time. Let him cover my money, make the arrangements and we'll see who is wrong."

IN POLICE COURT

Brief Session With Several Sentences

This morning's session of the police court was comparatively short, all of the cases having been disposed of in less than fifteen minutes.

Liquor Case

The case of Frank Levesque, charged with illegally keeping liquor in Draught, came up on continuance and was placed on file with the understanding that he would not further engage in illegal trade.

John H. Donohoe, charged with drunkenness, pleaded with the court to be given another chance and Judge Hadley after giving Donohoe some good advice gave him a suspended sentence of six months in jail. Agnes P. Donohoe, charged with neglect of his wife, had his case continued till Oct. 15.

The case of John Paul, charged with assault and battery, was continued till tomorrow.

Daniel Turner, drunk, was sentenced to 15 days in jail. George J. Sullivan received 100 months' sentence to the same institution.

John C. Driscoll, a parole man, will be returned to the state farm. Thomas W. Dugan was fined $6, there were three $2 drinks, and three simple offenders were released.

PARK DEPARTMENT WANTS MORE FOR SUNDRIES

Move to Change the Name of Draught Street Held Up on Motion to Reconsider

The common council meetings have been renewed. The first regular meeting since the summer vacation was held last night and about the first question that councilmen asked each other, was: "How did you like the municipal outings?"

Several department reports for the month were read and placed on file.

A joint communication from Agent Bates of the board of health, stating that there was no money remaining to the credit of office sundries in his department, was referred to the committee on appropriations. The matter of transferring $1000 from the labor account to the sundries account in the park department was referred to the committee on appropriations.

A joint resolution that Draught street be laid out and accepted, and that the name be changed to Kelly street, was read, and there was opposition to the change.

Councilman Gookin said he had canvassed the street and had found much opposition to the change of name.

Councilman Gonest was for changing the name of the street. Councilman Gookin moved and Councilman Brady seconded that that section of the resolution providing for the changing of the name be stricken out. The vote was six in favor and seven against and the question then came on the passage of the resolution and it passed by a vote of 14 to 7. Councilman Gookin moved reconsideration at the next meeting.

An order asking for the appropriation of $1000 for raising and repairing sidewalks on the North common was referred to the committee on appropriations.

JUDGE HADLEY

Gone to Ipswich to the Funeral of Friend

Judge Samuel P. Hadley, of the police court, went to Ipswich, Mass., this morning to attend the funeral of the late Robert Gilmer, of that place. Mr. Gilmer and the judge were of the same age and the friendship formed while attending the district school proved to be a lasting one.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of Court Merrimack, Foresters of America, was held last night, Chief Ranger James J. Spillane presiding. Patrick J. Mahoney submitted a report of the supreme court convention recently held at Toledo, O. The anniversary committee reported that the arrangements for the banquet which will be held at Associate hall on Wednesday evening, Sept. 29, are now nearly completed and the committee will distribute a handsome souvenir to all the members who attend on that evening. Thomas Mooney and Thomas Kelley were chosen as the committee on souvenirs.

Under the head of good and welfare interesting remarks were offered by Michael H. McDonough, Patrick Mahoney, John Barrett and Frank V. King. After the meeting the lecturer passed cigars, and an enjoyable entertainment was given by the Grafton Musical company.

Samuel H. Hines, Jr., K. of P., met in regular session last night and passed on many important matters. D. D. Grand, Chancellor I. W. McArthur of Cambridge was present and talked interestingly on the work of the lodge, and he was followed by other members of the order. The first white party of the season will be held Sept. 28 and arrangements were talked of for an Old Maid's auction in the near future.

Bay State colony, U. O. P. E., met last night and passed on many important matters. It was decided to have the election of officers for the coming term on Oct. 12.

Mt. Zion lodge, I. O. G. T., met last night and plans for the coming fair were discussed at length. The reports of the committees to have charge were quite encouraging. The program for the meeting next Tuesday promises to give good entertainment to the members. Interesting remarks were heard from several of those present.

NASHUA COUNCIL

Refused to Meet With the Board of Aldermen

NASHUA, N. H., Sept. 15.—The common council last night gave the mayor and the board of aldermen a surprise by refusing point blank to meet in joint convention on the matter of confirming appointments to the commission to revise the city charter.

When the message was read in the lower chamber Councilman Frank Rancourt moved to refuse to meet the mayor and board. The motion was seconded by Councilman Thomas Callahan and carried by a large majority. Promptly upon receipt of the council's action the aldermen adjourned.

Talking of the matter after the meeting Mayor Shedd characterized the action of the council as "peanut politics." The mayor was extremely indignant and charged the council with lack of courtesy. Some of the members declared that the mayor and aldermen last year refused to meet the council on a similar matter.

The mayor had prepared a new list of names for the commission, having considered the matter since Alderman Proctor called his attention at the last meeting to the fact that Charles H. Burke and Ralph A. Arnold were ineligible because of their being cemetery trustees. In the places of these two he selected Dr. A. W. Shea and Nelson S. Whitman, both democrats, making the full list include them and Col. W. D. Swart, a Burton Crankshaw, Harry P. Greeley and Alvin J. Lucier.

The mayor believes that this list includes the best selections possible, and he suggests that if the council continues to refuse to meet the matter will be carried over to the next legislature according to the act and not wait for confirmation. The councilmen state that the mayor took his time in making the appointments, and that they only took time to consider the matter for a new bridge, was read it was reported that the bridge would cost $37,000, and the councilmen were of the opinion the present one required would answer.

The aldermen voted to lay out Nagle street, after viewing it. The layout will be according to the old plan and will cross the railroad, no council for the railroad being present to oppose it last night at the hearing.

FELL FROM CAR

Patrick Cannon Was Severely Injured

Patrick Cannon of 112 Snifolk street was taken to St. John's hospital last night, suffering from a slight abrasion on the forehead caused by falling from a Nashua electric car. He was standing on the running board of the car and became frightened at the sudden flashing of a headlight on another car and either fell or jumped from the car. It is not thought that his injury will prove serious.

COM. PEARY

SAYS THAT COOK WAS NOT AT POLE

BATTLE HARBOR, Labrador, Sept. 15.—By wireless telegraph, via Cape Ray, N. F., Sept. 15.—Commander Peary yesterday afternoon answered a number of questions asked him by the Associated Press correspondent.

"Was Dr. Cook at the pole?" was the first query, to which the commander replied: "Cook was not at the pole on April 21, 1909, or at any other time. I make this statement advisedly, and at the proper time will back it up with proof."

"Were you surprised, Commander Peary, on returning to Labrador, to learn that Dr. Cook had reported reaching the pole, or had anything happened before you returned to cause you to anticipate this event?"

"I heard it in New York that Dr. Cook was at the pole."

HATHAWAY'S

NIGHT EDITION

THE COOK DINNER

Many Are Anxious to Meet the Arctic Explorer

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The sale of tickets for the welcome-home banquet to Dr. Frederick A. Cook which opened today satisfied the committee in charge that there are plenty of people who have faith enough in the Brooklyn explorer's claim to pay five dollars a piece for the privilege of attending that function. Dr. Roswell O. Stebbins, chairman of the executive committee of the Arctic club which is arranging the dinner, said that up to noon he had received 200 applications for seats.

The banquet will occur at the Waldorf-Astoria on the evening of September 25, two days after Dr. Cook's expected arrival. Since the number of guests is limited to 1200 the committee believes that the demand for seats will exceed the supply and is taking precautions to keep tickets out of the hands of speculators. Purchasers must give their names and addresses, and no person is permitted to buy more than one ticket.

The Cook welcoming committee of the Arctic club declares also that there is a big demand for tickets for the steamer Grand Republic on which a delegation will go down the harbor to meet Dr. Cook and transfer him from his steamer, the Oscar II, at quarantine.

Because it is now certain that Commander Peary will not arrive until some time later, preparations for meeting him are still in abeyance. It is believed that public officers, national, state and city, will hesitate to participate officially in the welcome to either claimant of Arctic honors while the controversy between them is still unsettled. Acting Mayor McGowan said today that nothing had been done by the city toward recognizing the arrival of Dr. Cook. Mayor McClellan left town yesterday without acting on the memorandum regarding Dr. Cook which Acting Mayor McGowan says he left on his desk.

"It is the old story of a prophet not being without honor save in his own country," said Mr. McGowan today.

MINISTER EDDY RETIRES

BUKHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 15.—Spencer F. Eddy of Chicago has sent in his resignation from the diplomatic corps to President Taft.

Mr. Eddy is at present United States minister to Rumania and Servia. His last post was minister to Argentina which country he left last January for Bukharest.

Mr. Eddy's decision to abandon the diplomatic service after a successful career therein is due to personal reasons, chiefly continued illness in his family. Mrs. Eddy, who is now in Paris, has not been well enough to join her husband here. Furthermore, certain pressing business matters in the United States compel Mr. Eddy's presence in Chicago and San Francisco during the coming winter.

ANNUAL FAIR

By the Middlesex North

UNDER AUSPICES OF CHELMS-
FORD GRANGE

Fair Opened in Chelmsford Town Hall
Today—Fine Display of Fruit, Vegetables and Poultry—Big Day Tomorrow

The annual fair of the Middlesex North Agricultural society, under the auspices of the Chelmsford grange, opened in the town hall at Chelmsford today. The crowd today was not very large, but tomorrow is the big day and a big crowd is expected.

It might be said that things were only being put on shape today. The farmers' dinner, which was up to the usual high standard, was served in Odia Fellows hall just across the street from the postoffice.

The feature of the afternoon was a grand exhibit of ladies and gentlemen's driving and family horses. There was a goodly number of entries and the feature was a very pleasant and a very pretty one. A number of gracious young women held the ribbons over prancing horses and piloted stylish bitches. The scene of this exhibit was the road in front of the town hall.

Four granges are competing for honors on the upper floor of the hall, and their exhibits were being put in order when the representative for the Sun called this afternoon. The reporter, however, saw enough to convince him that the grangers would be proud, and justly so, of their exhibits. Coupled with the display of fruit and vegetables there were many samples of women's handwork, including home-made quilts, bed spreads, sofa pillow tops, centre-

Bookkeeper Wanted
Young man who is good bookkeeper and understands typewriting can find permanent employment by addressing J. Sun Office, stating experience, ad-pieces and other articles of fancy work too numerous to mention. The lower floor is devoted to individual fruit, vegetable and poultry displays, with a few guinea pigs, pigeons and cats thrown in, and the reporter noticed that the cats were receiving more attention than all the others put together.

The individual vegetable exhibition on the first floor includes specimens of turnips, potatoes, muskmelons, blood beets, mangel beets, tomatoes, etc., that would be hard to beat. All of the specimens are large and perfect. Included in this exhibition is a bunch of peanuts grown by A. H. Davis of Chelmsford and they constitute a very odd and very attractive feature. The peanuts are full grown and look the real thing. As to taste the writer is not in a position to say for he did not dare to sample the precious things.

In another place in the hall, the reporter came across a bean-stalk. It was well loaded and was labelled: "What two beans can do."

The fair will keep open all evening and there will be a concert by the Chelmsford brass band.

The society is offering $600 in premiums and tomorrow will be the big day. The program for tomorrow is as follows: Ten a. m. exhibit of draught horses and prize cattle; 12 m. Farmers' dinner. Music by the Chelmsford band. Two p. m. baby show, pony show and sports.

A STRONG PROTEST
Against Rebuilding of Tannery
In Howe Street

Judging from the talk in lower Belvidere this morning the property owners of that section will organize a movement to prevent, if possible, the future use of the Howe street building as a tannery.

For several years past many of the property owners in the immediate vicinity of the Howe St. building have side but the authorities stated that they couldn't say positively whether they were caused by the tannery or emanated from other sources. In fact, the street the odor is particularly bad and the property owners in this street are prepared to further any movement that will result in the tannery being moved elsewhere.

Complaints Made

Complaints relative to the stench caused by the tannery in question have been made off and on for years. Several years ago a very strenuous complaint was made and at times the tannery owners or managers succeeded in convincing the inspectors that the stench complained of was not coming from the tannery, but from the privy vaults on tenement property owned by the Massachusetts mills in East Merrimack street. The Massachusetts mills decided to do away with the vaults and being unable to make the necessary connections with the city sewer laid a sewer of their own. That done away with the privy vaults but the stench remained because the tannery remained.

Several complaints have since been made and the premises have been visited several times by the local board of health and by Dr. Simpson of the state board.

It seems, however, that nothing has been done to abate the nuisance though several suggestions have been made. At one time the tannery people proposed taking care of the stench by water to have it carried away by the Concord river rather than the air. The scheme was outlined quite elaborately, but was never put into effect. Agent Bates of the local board of health was asked today if he had received complaints relative to the stench arising from the tannery and he said that several complaints had been made, but that the matter really came under the jurisdiction of Dr. Simpson.

"I have visited the premises with Dr. Simpson," said Mr. Bates "and suggested relative to abatement of the nuisance were made, but I do not know that anything was ever done to improve conditions. I know that the odor is far from pleasant."

JEWISH PEOPLE
To Celebrate Anniversary of Creation of the World

With the setting of the sun tonight, the Jewish residents of this country will usher in with prayer, and all the impressive ceremonies of the Hebrew ritual, the 5770th anniversary of the creation of the world, according to the Hebrew calendar.

With the exception of "Yom Kippur" it is the most devoutly observed of all the Jewish festivals, and is religiously kept by orthodox and reformed Jews alike. Rosh Hashona marks the opening of the Hebrew penitential season, which covers an interval of nearly a month, and which ends with "Yom Kippur," the Day of Atonement.

Most notable among the features of the ritual is the blowing of the "shofar" or ram's horn. This custom is a survival of ancient times, when, at the setting of the sun on the last day of the year, the slaves who had been seven years in bondage were liberated at the blowing of the six blasts on the trumpet.

Rosh Hashona is also the day on which the two scrolls from the laws of Moses are taken from the ark or tabernacle and borne with solemn impressiveness to the reading desk, where they are read to six members of the congregation.

Another feature of the New Year's service in the synagogue is the chanting of the long ritual of the day. This chant was written during the prolonged activity of the Jews in Babylonia, the recital of it in Hebrew a task which requires some five hours to complete.

Among the orthodox Jews the custom of visiting for the purpose of bringing good wishes is still in vogue, and the households in the Jewish districts of the country have been made attractive, and the ladies repainted in order that the well-wishers may be properly entertained.

STRIKE IS ENDED
Weavers in Borden's Mills Decide to Return to Work

FALL RIVER, Sept. 15.—The strike might be reached. Matters reached an acute stage last week and at a meeting Saturday the 1000 weavers voted to strike. As very few appeared at the mills on Monday morning the management at once decided that it would be impossible to continue operations so the rest of the help was sent home.

During the two days, however, energetic measures were adopted toward settlement and the five per cent. increase was submitted to the executive committee of the weavers' union last night. When the measure was brought before a mass meeting at 3:30 a. m. it was met with such a hearty approval that it was adopted without division and by acclamation.

WORKMEN INJURED

In Collapse of Old Howe St. Tannery Building

Two in Hospital Will Recover—Fire Started Later—Total Damage Estimated at $250,000—Collapse Had Been Expected—Inspector Dow Says Building Should Have Been Condemned Ten Years Ago

With a mighty roar and a crash that struck terror to the hearts of all who heard them the unsightly and malodorous frame tannery building in Howe street collapsed about 5 o'clock last evening, enveloping two workmen in a pile of debris and endangering the lives of several others. By one of those inexplicable freaks of fate the disaster held off just long enough to permit a large gang of men who had been working there, to clear the domed building, for had the accident occurred 15 minutes earlier serious loss of life undoubtedly would have resulted.

The injured are:

Peter Rivet of 352 Stackpole street, a broken rib, abrasions in the back and injuries to the left hip and thigh, taken to St. John's hospital.

George Lewis, a Greek, of 578 Market street, abrasions in the back and three fingers crushed, taken to St. John's hospital.

Stephen K. Chase, of Mt. Hope street, abrasions in left arm, left knee and head, and wrenched shoulder, taken to his home.

Patrick Regan, John King and one McMullin escaped injury by jumping from a second story window.

An hour after the collapse of the building a fire broke out in the debris and caused, it is alleged, a loss of about $250,000, a large stock of valuable hides being destroyed by fire and water.

DENOUNCED AS A MENACE TO PUBLIC HEALTH.

The residents in the vicinity of the Howe street tannery say that it is an intolerable nuisance that should have been condemned many years ago. It has rendered some property in the vicinity uninhabitable and greatly reduced the value of other property. The people are hoping that this accident will result in the removal of the tannery to the outskirts of the city where it will not be a menace to public health.

Story of the Accident

The old building on Howe street is owned and used by the American Hide & Leather Company for the sorting, trimming and cleaning of hides, and has long been a nuisance to that section of the community. The building was a ramshackle affair, originally a few blocks from time to time.

The accident occurred with only the warning of a second or more. With the exception of Rivet, the men mentioned above were in the building sorting hides, while Rivet was standing in his wagon in Howe street unloading more hides.

Suddenly a crash was heard followed by a most unusual rumbling sound and then the entire Howe street end of the building came down in a heap, crashing through the smaller building adjoining it and tearing down the telegraph poles and wires in front of the building in Howe street.

In the flying mass of lumber, hides, etc., those nearby were horrified to see the forms of two men hurled down under the tons of debris. The crash of the collapse was heard throughout the district and in a twinkling Howe and East Merrimack streets were filled with terror-stricken people. The women and children of the Polish colony nearby, whose husbands and fathers, in many cases, were employed in the tannery, poured into the streets screaming with terror. An ambulance call was sent in followed by a fire alarm from box 151, while hundreds started the work of rescuing the men under the debris, who could be plainly seen.

Officer David Hogan, George W. Enwright and Ernest Bertrand were among the first on the scene, as were Rev. Fra. Sullivan, O. M. L. and Tighe, O. M. L. of the Immaculate Conception and Sacred Heart churches, respectively, and with the other employees of the tannery they went fearlessly into the ruins and in a few minutes pulled the injured men to a place of safety.

The two ambulances, one driven by Dr. J. H. Sparks himself, were quickly summoned. For Dr. Sparks upon learning that several men had been hurt, having no driver at his stable at the time, took the reins himself, while the fire department also responded. At that time there was no fire but the ladders were used to good advantage.

In a short time the injured men were hurried to St. John's hospital, except Mr. Chase, who decided to go home, while Arthur Merrill, superintendent of the building, looked up the roster of his employees and made the statement that everyone had been taken out and that no one had been accounted for. Electrician Harry of the fire department arrived on the scene with wires and ropes and his way into every home in the neighborhood from time to time.

of the building was left standing, though badly out of plumb and threatened to come down at any moment. All was confusion for some time, as the friends of the employees having learned of the disaster, appeared on the scene, excitedly inquiring for the names of the injured.

JEWISH FAMILIES

TO BE PERMITTED TO GO TO PALESTINE

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—A despatch has been received in London from Constantinople stating that, in accordance with their request, the Turkish government has granted permission to the 10,000 Jewish families of Russia, who recently organized for the purpose, to settle in Palestine and Syria.

This request of the government was addressed before the restrictions against Jewish immigration were abolished in Turkey. The abolition of these restrictions is coincident with the granting of this request.

Since the establishment of the constitutional government in Turkey, many Jewish families in Russia have been planning to emigrate to Palestine, and associations for the purchase of land and for settlement in the Holy Land were organized in many cities.

The 10,000 families in question represent the association of several cities.

PERU AND BOLIVIA

Said to Have Arrived at an Agreement

RIO JANEIRO, Sept. 15.—The Journal of Commerce in its issue of yesterday said that telegrams from the Pacific coast announced that an agreement between the governments of Peru and Bolivia on the recent boundary dispute which one time threatened to plunge these states into war had been reached on the point of being signed. The basis of the understanding is the decision in this dispute handed down by President Alencar of Argentina on July 4 last and this decision in by the terms of the new agreement recognized by Bolivia.

According to the Journal of Commerce, Peru surrenders to Bolivia a very small extent of territory lying between the Madre de Dios river and the Are traversed by the rivers Tahuamanu and Huancabamba, which together form the river Orthon, an affluent of the Beni river. This territory with an area of about 6500 square kilometers was discovered and colonized by Bolivians who today are in possession of the property and industries there. Peru sets all the upper course of the Madre de Dios from its headwaters to its confluence with the river Beath.

Such a slight modification as the foregoing from the decision reached by the arbitrator in no way molests the Argentine republic, says the Journal of Commerce. The work of an arbitrator terminates when he has communicated his finding and Argentina has no objection to a generous relinquishment of territory on the part of Peru, an act undertaken to assure friendly relations between Peru and Bolivia.

Conciliatory arrangements deserve the approbation of all who desire peace and concord in South America and we are persuaded that the Argentine is sincerely desirous of seeing a policy of peace carried out.

It has been said that the non-acceptance of an arbitral decision amounts to an offense to the arbitrator, but it is not necessary to look outside of South America for a precedent in which an arbitrator has not shown offense when his findings were ignored. The president of the French republic decided a frontier question between Colombia and Costa Rica only to find that his judgment was accepted by neither party. In this case Colombia and Costa Rica decided mutually to modify their frontiers and negotiations to this end were in progress when the independence of Panama made their continuance useless.

The sentence of the queen regent of Spain in the frontier question between Colombia and Venezuela was almost a complete victory for Colombia. Venezuela did not want to accept the finding and Spain neither protested nor indicated that she was offended. Venezuela and Colombia have just signed a treaty settling the sovereignty in favor of Venezuela of a vast stretch of territory on the right bank of the Rio Negro. In the Genetti question between Colombia and Italy the arbitrator, who was Grover Cleveland, decided in favor of Italy. The diplomatic representative of Colombia at Washington in an official note declared that his government could not accept this decision. But the American government did not expel the Colombian government nor did it strive to impose the sentence of the arbitrator on Colombia.

"We think that the Brazilian government," the Journal of Commerce continues, "in no way participated in the discussions which have been conducted at LaPaz and Lima and furthermore we are aware that the Peruvian government has recognized and declared its belief in the correctness of the course of Brazil in this question. Public opinion in Brazil is sincerely desirous that Peru in the interest of peace and concord show herself friendly to Bolivia, her neighbor and former ally, and concede to her the little she asks. Such a step would mean no important sacrifice to Peru nor would it show any lack of courtesy to Argentina. The essential thing for South America is that the present complications and difficulties be done away with as soon as possible. It is today impossible to forecast the dangerous consequence of a continuance of the recent situation. The present difficulty once composed the road will be open for conciliation between Argentina and Bolivia, which it is hoped other nations also will follow."

In recent years additions have been made without any apparent strengthening of the underpinning until the building stood at the time of its collapse, two stories high and with an aspect from the street similar to that of the unbattered leaning tower of Pisa. The outer walls consisted of shutters, which were opened to let in the air and let out a most nauseating odor that came its way into every home in the neighborhood from time to time.

The Collapse Had Been Expected

By 5:20 o'clock the excitement had subsided, though hundreds crowded the streets in the vicinity to inspect the ruins and discuss the cause of the accident. The reporter of The Sun was held up by as many as a dozen men with the statements: "That's been expected for a long time" or "That wall has been threatening to cave in for several years."

Fire Broke Out

At 5:45 an alarm from box 131 attracted attention to the scene again and the fire department upon arriving found a lively blaze in progress among the contents and ruins of the building. Owing to the unsafe condition of the ruins the firemen were forced to proceed cautiously in fighting the flames and before the recall sounded, the entire stock of hides, valued, it is said, at about one quarter of a million dollars, was totally destroyed. The contents of the building, including the insurance company, who was on the scene, stated to the writer that the company carried about $200,000 insurance on the stock. The firemen were kept busy for two hours.

A Valuable Stock

An official of the company said that if any water should strike the hides or if a hole were torn in them, the skins were rendered useless. The volumes of water poured upon the ruins later in the evening, accordingly, probably made the loss of the skins complete, and there is little hope that many of them will be fit for use.

This department handles from 30,000 to 40,000 skins a week, and each skin is perfect when it arrives, there being less than one per cent. of second class skins in the place at any time. These hides are perishable at any stage from the time they are received until they go through the tanning process, and the slightest change of weather or condition may spoil them for use.

Mr. Chase's Experience

Mr. Steven K. Chase of Mt. Hope street was the only one of the three injured men in condition to make a statement immediately after the accident occurred. He was employed as a trimmer on the top or fifth floor and how he escaped as he did is beyond explanation. He was cutting hides when he heard a tremendous crash and in an instant found himself being carried along with a mass of timbers, beams and hides. When the mass became motionless he found himself held down by one foot under a piece of timber. He managed to free himself and upon reaching the street started at once to assist in digging out the others. He didn't realize that he had been injured for some little time when his shoulder began to trouble him and then he found that he had been cut on the head, leg and arm as well as having wrenched his shoulder.

Had Narrow Escape

Arthur Merrill, who is superintendent of that part of the plant, was not in the building when the accident happened but was on hand a moment later. He was at a loss to account for the accident and stated that conditions were no different there yesterday than they had been in the past and he did not believe that there were as many skins in the building as usual. Had the accident happened five minutes earlier a gang of men would have been working directly under the part that collapsed, but all had left for another part of the tannery a few minutes before. The engineer also escaped by going to another part of the building a few minutes before the collapse.

Horses Escaped

The wagon which Rivel drove and on which he was standing when the pile came down on him was completely buried, but by a strange feature the two horses attached to it escaped without injury.

Cause of the Accident

There is but one cause for the accident and that is the fact that the building was old, settled and over-weighted. Even if the amount of hides in the building yesterday was not as great as formerly the collapse was inevitable for the building has lasted to its finish. The collapse came from the first or brick story rather than from the top of the building. The brick walls bulged out and the underpinning giving out the superstructure had to come down.

Inspector Dow Condemns Building

Building Inspector Dow, accompanied

by State Inspectors Ball and Roche, inspected the ruins this morning and Mr. Dow immediately ordered all employees out of the building and ordered the company to tear down the remains of the structure.

"The building cannot be repaired," said Inspector Dow, "it must come down. The underpinnings are no good and the building should have been condemned ten years ago. When people know of the condition of a building such as this they should call the attention of the building inspector to it at once. We do not make inspections unless a complaint is made. The law requires an inspection of new or altered buildings, but once a building is erected and passed by inspector it may be used until it crumbles away with old age."

MATRIMONIAL

The marriage of Mr. Henri Desreanleau of Notre Dame de Stanbridge, Que., and Miss Pamela Robert, daughter of Mr. Vital Robert of this city, took place yesterday at St. Joseph's church at a nuptial mass celebrated by Rev. Fr. Baron. O. M. L. Mr. Robert attended his daughter, while the bridegroom was attended by a brother of the bride, Mr. Arthur Robert. The bride's gown was of white mousseline de soie, and she wore a tulle veil and carried white roses. During the mass a musical program was given by the choir of the Congregation de Notre Dame de Montreal, of which the bride was a member.

After the ceremony, breakfast was served at the bride's home, 33 Fifth avenue, the guests being the relatives only. Shortly afterward, Mr. and Mrs. Desreanleau took the train for Canada, where they will reside.

BRODEUR-BISCORNET

Mr. Arthur Brodeur and Miss Annie Etta Biscornet were married Monday morning at St. Joseph's rectory where the ceremony was performed with a mass in the private chapel at 9 o'clock. Rev. Fr. Bruggard, O. M. L., officiated. Mr. James Biscornet was bestman and Miss Bertha Biscornet, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. The bride wore white muslin and carried white sweet peas. The bridesmaid wore pink muslin and carried pink roses. Breakfast was served after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Biscornet, 5 Harvard street. The guests included only relatives. At noon Mr. and Mrs. Brodeur left on a trip to New York and Hudson river where they will be during the Hudson Carnival week. They have received many handsome gifts, and upon their return they will reside at 6 Harvard street.

PULSIFER-COGGESHALL

Miss Edith Lavelle Coggeshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Coggeshall of Beacon street, this city, and Prof. Nathan Pulsifer of Tufts college were married Tuesday evening, the 14th, at the Coggeshall camp and studio, Lakesville, Cape Ann. The wedding was one of the prettiest in the history of Cape Ann. The bridal party, headed by the bride, which was prettily decorated, preceded by nine little flower girls dressed in white, also singing the wedding march. These were followed by four ushers, Mr. Lovell Brown of New York, Mr. Warren Fox of Braintree, Mr. Lawrence and Mr. Ralph Shepard of Hartford, Conn. Miss Marion Hovey of Lowell was maid of honor. The little ring bearer was Clarence Larsen of Lakesville. The bride was attired in white chiffon with the conventional hair, collar and carried bridal roses. She wore a long, narrow, white train and carried the splendid sash on the arm of her father, Prof. Morse of New Britain, Conn. was groomsmen and the officiating clergyman was Rev. Mr. Marvin of Franklin, assisted by Rev. Charles T. Baylis, D. D., of Brooklyn, N. Y. The bride was given away by her father, and the double ring ceremony was used. Nearly 200 guests were present, and the gathering was a notable one, nearly every state in the Union being represented, besides the large number of local friends.

WALL ST. PLEASED

Over the Election of J. P. Morgan, Jr.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—J. P. Morgan, Jr., was elected yesterday to the late E. H. Harriman's place on the board of directors of the National City bank. By Wall street the election is regarded as one of the most significant of the week's financial developments, presumably indicating that harmonious relations exist between the Morgan and the Kuhn-Loeb-Standard Oil groups of financiers. Added weight was given the event because it followed so closely upon the recent reports that the Morgan interests were about to take an active interest in the government of the Harriman roads and that the younger Morgan was slated as the ultimate successor of Mr. Harriman in the command of the Union and Southern Pacific systems.

The National City bank, largest of the nation's financial institutions, is controlled by the Kuhn-Loeb-Standard Oil interests, which Monday assumed a commanding position, for the time being at least, in the executive committee of the Union Pacific. George W. Perkins of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. is already a director of the bank and the additional reorganization given the firm yesterday was taken in the financial district to mean not merely the existence of an "entente cordiale," but the consummation of an active working alliance between the two great groups of American financiers.

The National City bank, referred to by the general public as the "Standard Oil bank," has resources aggregating more than $200,000,000, while the First National, known as the "Morgan bank," has resources approximating $150,000,000. The tremendous resources of the two combined is at once apparent.

The commanding position which the National City bank interests now hold in the Harriman roads is indicated by the fact that four of the six members of the reconstructed executive committee of the Union Pacific are directors in the bank—Jacob H. Schiff, William Rockefeller, Frank A. Vanderbilt and Henry C. Erick.

The changes made in the Southern Pacific directorate at the meeting yesterday, as a result of Mr. Harriman's death, were precisely the same as those made in the Union Pacific directorate Monday, and were in line with the general expectation. Judge Lovett succeeded Mr. Harriman as chairman of the executive committee, while Jacob H. Schiff and William Rockefeller were elected directors and made members of the enlarged executive committee. As was the case at the Union Pacific meeting, no action was taken in the matter of electing a successor to Mr. Harriman as president.

The Harriman stocks moved upwards on the market yesterday largely, however, in compliance with the recent optimistic reports of the future plans of the financier's supposed successors.

In Paris Dr. Sabouraud discovered the dandruff microbe and the way to kill it.

In Paris women have most abundant, beautiful, lustrous and fascinating hair.

They know about hair and its diseases in Paris, far more than we do. They have institutions where the study of the hair is made a specialty.

6 O'CLOCK GAVE HIS BLOOD

In Order to Save Life of His Friend

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—Carl S. Longfellow, residing on Talbot avenue, Dorchester, a patient at the Charlesgate hospital, is said to owe his life to the devotion of a friend, who submitted to an operation that embraced the opening of his veins for the transfusion of blood that the other might be benefited thereby.

James C. Fairweather, 27 years old, living at 47 Townsend street, Roxbury, is the man who thus came to the assistance of Longfellow when his case seemed utterly hopeless.

Both men are employed in the store of John M. Callahan & Co. on Federal street.

Some weeks ago Longfellow underwent an operation at the hospital, and had been looked upon as falling rapidly since.

Realizing that something must be done right away, Dr. Gilpatrick, the surgeon in charge of the case, notified Longfellow's fellow clerks in the Callahan office of its desperate character, and told them that a transfusion of blood operation might save the young man. Fairweather knew that Longfellow had a wife and little child and immediately volunteered.

The operation was performed Monday night and proved very successful. Fairweather took his place beside his friend, one of his veins was opened and the life fluid allowed to flow through a tube into the veins of Longfellow.

About a quart of blood was given up

In this manner, and Longfellow rallied so much that the surgeons now look upon his recovery as certain.

Fairweather was about his tasks as usual at the Callahan store yesterday and showed just a slight paleness as the result of the experience he had undergone.

REGISTRY SYSTEM
BEING OVERHAULED BY THE
POSTMASTER GENERAL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Already engaged in an overhauling of the registry system of the postal service, Postmaster-General Hitchcock has gone a step further and set a number of experts at work to eradicate some of the kinks in the money-order system, with a view of obtaining greater efficiency and less expenditure.

This committee of experts is to report not later than December 1. The advisability of dispensing with mail addresses to postmasters after a money order has been issued is one of the reforms to be considered. It is estimated this would save half a million dollars a year. The wisdom of reviving the postal note, abolished by congress in 1891, will also receive attention.

LAWRENCE WOMAN Notified That She Has Been Left Fortune of $1,000,000

LAWRENCE, Sept. 15.—Mrs. George Bramer, whose home is in Hamilton, Bermuda, but who, up to the time of her marriage three weeks ago, was employed in a store here, was notified Monday that she had fallen heir to about $1,000,000, a portion of the fortune of Robert Benjamin Ribstock of Penzance, in the Scilly Islands.

Mrs. Bramer was born on the 13th day of July, 1883, and Monday, the day she learned of her good fortune, was the 15th day of the month, so that she thinks that day anything but unlucky for her.

The money has come to her because she and her mother were kind to an old man, an invalid, who passed his winters near their home in Bermuda.

Mrs. Bramer has notified her husband of her good fortune and is awaiting his return from Syracuse.

Mrs. Bramer up to Aug. 24 was Miss Ethel M. Jennings, and came here with her mother in January after living a short time in Boston. She had suffered an attack of appendicitis and sought America to regain her health. Her mother returned to Hamilton in April, and the daughter obtained employment in a cloak and suit store.

At her boarding house she met George P. Bramer in Stoughtonville, O., an electrician. After a brief courtship there was a wedding at the home of Mrs. Annie Kay, 50 Tenney street. Soon after the marriage Mr. Bramer was called to Syracuse on business, and the couple planned to move to Schenectady in a few months.

Mrs. Bramer's mother, Mrs. Ida C. Jennings, is the widow of an officer in the British army, who served in Egypt and was wounded at the battle of Magduba Hill. After his death his sons, William and Walter, came to America and settled in Dover, N. H.

Mr. Ribstock, whose wife has brought a fortune to Mrs. Bramer, was nearly 55 years old when he died, a few weeks ago, and had known the Jennings family about eight years. He lived during the summer at Penzance and passed the winter at Hamilton.

"We were attentive to Mr. Ribstock," said Mrs. Bramer, "because we sympathized with him; he was alone, and seemed to appreciate very much our little attentions to him. Each winter he came to see us and seemed to find a haven of quiet in our family."

"But I never expected anything like this, and even now I can hardly believe it true. I am very glad for my mother's and my husband's sake."

"I received the formal notice from Simpson Bros., Mr. Ribstock's attorneys, yesterday, that the railroad stocks and bonds left me in the will would amount to $1,000,000 or more, and that the rest of his fortune was left to charities."

"Mr. Ribstock never was married, and as far as I know, had no living relatives."

UNKNOWN MAN WAS KILLED BY A TROLLEY CAR

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 15.—An unidentified man was instantly killed by a trolley car at Arctic Centre early this morning. The body is being held in an undertaking room there to await identification. The man was lying on the track when the last car for this city came speeding along. The lights in the village were all out and the car ran over the man before the motorman noticed him.

The probation commission has charge of all probation officers in the state, and was created by the legislature of 1908.

STRIKING BAKERS
SAID TO HAVE THREATENED MEN AT WORK

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 15.—A number of striking bakers made a round last night of the bakeries of the city, breaking windows and threatening the men at work. Driven from one bakery by the police, they visited another and repeated their tactics. Several arrests were made. The former employees of the Stockholm Street Car Co. have offered to pay the company for the damages caused by their property during the recent strike on condition that all the strikers be re-employed.

ROBERT FULTON'S CAREER

PARIS, Sept. 15.—George Montorgueil in an elaborate review of Robert Fulton's career in France, published today, reproduces an official account of Fulton's trials on the Seine, Jan. 26, 1803, and Fulton's own words, saying that the real inspirations of his discovery were the experiments of Marquis Jouffrey at Lyons in 1783. This writer does to prove that "the steamboat is a French invention perfected in France by an American and exploited in America" and he says, "the real reason, France is sending a member of the legislature and a detachment of her fleet to join in the 'tribute of gratitude which America is paying to her illustrious son, who in many ways made the old world tributary to the new.'"

M. Montorgueil insists that Fulton left France because the Napoleon regime would not accept his Nautilus, a prototype of the submarine, with three of which Fulton told Napoleon he could destroy the English fleet. Subsequently Fulton offered the Nautilus to England, but England wanted to destroy the secret, whereupon Fulton went to America.

AMERICAN GIRL

Married to Prince Miguel of Braganza in Scotland Today

PINGWALL, Scotland, Sept. 15.—Miss Anna Stewart, daughter of Mrs. James Stewart, daughter of Mr. James Stewart, who was very little more than a child when she was married to Prince Miguel of Braganza, became the bride of Prince Miguel of Braganza today in the little Roman Catholic chapel of St. Lawrence. The congregation of this church is made up of descendants of the clans who belonged to the faith in the days of Mary, Queen of Scots. The chapel itself was beautifully decorated with flowers, while the rustic benches that led up to the altar were covered with flowers and the bride and groom were met by the bridegroom's parents with the words "God bless the prince and his beautiful bride." The ceremony was followed by the celebration of a low mass, after which the bishop pronounced the pope's blessing and a general benediction. The music was rendered by the chorists of the chapel, accompanied by the band of the Seaforth Highlanders. The bride's dress was of snow white chiffon over soft satin. The chiton was embellished by long lines of embroidery in white silk, silver and tiny pearls made up of sprays of heather, fleur de lis and Portuguese devices. A veil of old lace was worn over a wreath of orange blossoms and heather, fastened with a large feather of diamonds and sapphires which has been in the Braganza family for centuries. This was the present of the groom. The only other jewels worn by the bride were a set of combs with diamond heads, a gift of the Archduchess Maria Theresa.

The prince was clad in Maltese uniform, a brilliant scarlet coat dress decorated with gold.

As the chapel is small, the ceremony was witnessed only by relatives of the bride and groom and the immediate friends. These included the Duke and Duchess of Braganza, the groom's father and stepmother, Mrs. Smith, Princess Adelaide of Bourbon and representatives of several well-known families.

On the return of the party to Tulloch castle the wedding luncheon was served during which guests played appropriate music.

The weather was beautiful and the day was gay with laughing and cheering of the guests.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

PAVING OF MERRIMACK STREET.

The street department has started the work of paving Merrimack street. Judging from the rate of progress made upon Bridge street, the storms of winter will be upon us before the paving of Merrimack street will be finished. No good paving job can be done with the frost in the ground.

SHALL WE HAVE ANOTHER CARNIVAL?

Whether we shall have another auto carnival may depend to a great extent upon the financial showing made by the committee in charge of the recent carnival. If the people of Lowell find that the auto club did the very best it could and met all its obligations to the public, then public sentiment will favor a repetition of the great auto races.

THE FLYING OMNIBUS.

An inventor in Paris has applied for a license to run a flying omnibus by which he is to transport merchandise and passengers. That is the first intimation the world has had of any proposition to use the flying machine as substitute for a railroad train or an express car. His invention may fall short of his claims but there is little doubt that in due time somebody will be running a flying omnibus.

TO PROTECT LETTER CARRIERS.

The postoffice department has issued an order to the effect that letter carriers will not be required to deliver mail at houses where vicious dogs are allowed to go at large. The families who keep such dogs will have the privilege of going to the postoffice for their mail. Other people who have to call at such houses will have to protect themselves as best they can. We never could see any justification for keeping vicious dogs except under proper restraint.

THE POLAR CONTROVERSY.

The controversy between Peary and Cook promises to divide public opinion as thoroughly as did the rival claims of Sampson and Schley over the battle of Santiago bay. It was Schley who said, "There are honors enough for all of us," and this seems to be the position of Dr. Cook; but Peary is selfish and obdurate. He wants the whole thing and is positively averse to allowing anybody to establish counter claims to priority in the discovery of the pole. Peary of course has spent many years in quest of the pole and it is natural that he should object to taking second place to a man who had little distinction in that line.

MEMORIAL TO G. T. ANGELL.

A beautiful fountain is to be erected in Lynn to honor the memory of the late George T. Angell. It will be paid for by popular subscriptions, and judging from the list of contributions already published, Lynn has a great many people who admired the work of Mr. Angell in behalf of the lower animals. His efforts through the organ of the Humane society were productive of much good and it is well that his memory should be honored for his self-sacrifice and the noble work he performed for the prevention of cruelty to animals.

THE TARIFF COMMISSION.

The tariff commission recently appointed, judging from its membership, will render more important service than was at first anticipated. The final settlement of the tariff can come only by having the whole question submitted to a tariff commission, preferably a tariff court vested with judicial power. This commission is not so constituted but, nevertheless, it is well qualified to investigate the underlying principles of the tariff, the workings of the present law, the iniquity of some schedules and the inadequacy of some others. After determining by proper investigation the ultimate effect of certain schedules the commission will be prepared to decide tariff problems on a scientific basis. In this way the whole tariff question may be eventually taken out of politics so that the trusts and combines of the country will no longer be able to dictate whether the rates shall be high or low.

NEW USES FOR WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY.

Almost every day brings out some new proof of the value of wireless telegraphy in carrying messages where the ordinary methods are inapplicable. It was by the wireless that Peary sent his first message relative to the discovery of the North pole, and if the same system were applied in the exploration of the pole there would be no room for the controversy that rages between Peary and Dr. Cook.

Wireless telegraphy is to be used as a means of protection against forest fires in the forests of the northwest. When fires start under present conditions the telegraph poles and wires are burned down so that it is impossible to send word ahead to other towns and districts to beware of the danger. By the wireless method messages can be sent to all the adjacent towns and cities, announcing the progress of the dangerous forest fires. In this way organized efforts can be made to head the fire off and stop its progress. Thus life and property may be saved where resistance was impossible under the old method.

The time has arrived when every trans-Atlantic line of steamships should be equipped with wireless telegraphy. Between a line that is so equipped and one that is not, the public will patronize the former even though the cost be higher.

SEEN AND HEARD

Officers and lawyers at this session of the superior court greatly missed the genial countenance of "Eddie" Kelly, the telephone boy at the court house, who was laid at rest last Saturday. While on his vacation a week or two ago "Eddie" caught cold and pneumonia set in with fatal results. "Eddie" was a most accommodating boy, and was always cheerful and willing.

Somewhere out west a woman had cold hands and just for that her husband got a divorce. If it was a case of cold feet it would be different, but it seems to us that he might have stood for the cold hands. We would if she was all right every other way.

Said the doctor to the Esquimaux: "Don't think this is the pole." "Don't know me," said the Esquimaux. "But me know she am cold."

OVERWORK

Oh, he was the busiest person alive, and an astounding proclivity for helping excitement about him to thrive.

By great and incessant activity. Whenever a procession set forth on the street.

His personal aid he would lend to it. He hastened with swift and unwearying feet.

He had to go out and attend to it. The clang of a fire bell, however remote.

Awakened his zeal instantaneous. When juvenile pugilists angrily snorted.

He gave notice extemporaneous. Each public disturbance he took to his care.

There was nobody else he could send to it. Though hundreds of persons were sure to be there.

He had to go out and attend to it. The post that he had was a lucrative one.

With a firm that was kindly but sensible. The record that told of the work he had done.

Was, saying the least, reprehensible. In spite of his recognized knowledge and skill.

They decided there must be an end to it. He was finely equipped the position to fill.

But he didn't have time to attend to it. A man made the remark a few days ago that he didn't know which sight tortured him most, a woman leading a dog by a string or chain or a boy smoking a cigarette.

The fellow who is forever kicking about being misquoted is the fellow who never meets the reporter half way and who is forever giving evasive answers and wrong impressions.

Did you ever try to drop one word from your limited vocabulary? If you didn't just try it.

You may always be sure that a wife is well trained when you see her sitting in the rumble seat of an automobile, while her husband rides at ease with the chauffeur.

Don't sympathize with a man just because he tells you that he leads a dog's life. Some dogs are treated mighty well.

Anyway, if we are going to bet on this Peary-Cook race we'd like to know who has the pole.

A note of interrogation after the dash to the North pole. We insist upon it.

Would you be surprised to learn that Peary or Cook didn't get any farther than Davidson street?

He who goes to the North pole must then go south.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"THE GIRL OF THE GOLDEN WEST." Among several other characters that have rarely, if ever, been put upon the stage, David Belasco's "The Girl of the Golden West" which comes to the Opera house Thursday, Sept. 16, numbers one that is especially distinctive because of the absolute perfection with which it is drawn. This character is Billy Jackrabbit, an Indian hanger-on of the camp. Because he is true to life, Billy Jackrabbit is anything but the "red man" of the stage.

The "red man" of the stage is to exist without labor, and in the least troublesome way. The Indian is present in the cast of characters because Billy Jackrabbit is a real Indian, and not the hero-worshipper's ideal aborigine, and the picture he draws is in every way a shock to those whose ideas of Indian character have been taken from books in which he is credited with numerous virtues.

"THE WORLD AND A WOMAN." "The World and a Woman" by Joseph Byron Totten, author of numerous dramatic successes well known to the players in every city, will be presented by Earl Burgess with a cast of metropolitan favorites, at the Opera house Sept. 17 and 18. Mr. Burgess has found it necessary to place seven companies in the field in order to adequately cover the theatrical territory where the demand for "The World and a Woman" is particularly insistent.

LOUIS MANN. Mr. Louis Mann, in his great success, "The Man Who Stood Still," comes to the Opera house soon. Mr. Mann's own role is that of a typical Bourbon—an old Swiss jeweler, who refuses to deal with the tide of progress, and at length, is left behind in business, in thought, in social life and even in his domestic relationships. The role is described as offering this well-liked actor ample opportunity for the display of versatility that has long been asserted in his behalf by himself and his many warm admirers. He comes with a company containing some well-known players. Among them is that delightful character actress, Maudie Gottrich, for so long directress of the once famous McCall Opera-Comique company. Emily Ann Whitman, one of the season's ingenues; Lillian Stanetti; Louis Hendricks; H. A. Lawton; John Charles Leslie Bassett; Edward Maynard and Frank Julian are others.

THE TRAVELING SALESMAN Henry B. Harris will present James Farnham's comedy hit, "The Traveling Salesman," in which the cast at the Opera house soon. Mr. Forbes will be remembered as the author of "The Circus Lady," which is universally regarded as one of the best entertainments of its kind ever seen on the stage. His latest effort more than duplicates the success made by "The Circus Lady," which should insure a treat to the patrons of the house.

ROSE STAHL A well-known New York critic characterized Rose Stahl's portrayal of the role Patricia O'Brien in James Forbes' comedy, "The Circus Lady," as follows: "As great as Warfield's 'Music Master,' Mrs. Carter's 'Zaza,' and Mr. Mansfield's 'Chevrolat.' The character is one of many unusual qualities, and as played for that bad morning taste comes from too heavy cigars.

The flavor of a cigar comes from the filler—the body. If the filler is good Havana tobacco, that is all that is needed for the real Havana "taste." That's what you get in

Blackstone Cigar (10c)

Quality Counts

An all-Havana cigar must be heavy because filler, binder and wrapper are all of strong Havana leaf. Smoke "Blackstone"—and you can smoke more, and feel less.

ARCTIC EXPERT

Who is Coming to Aid Dr. Cook

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—One of the most ardent supporters of Dr. Frederick A. Cook in the contention that he reached the North pole is Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, who was first to sail through the northwest passage. Amundsen is coming to America and will add his testimony to that of other Arctic experts in the event that Dr. Cook's achievement is investigated by the geologic survey or some geographical society.

Miss Stahl proves to be one of the most refreshing types seen on the American stage in many a day. Miss Stahl in the Forbes play will be seen here soon.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

Among the many features of the "School Boys and Girls" act at Hathaway's theatre, this week is a real live base ball game, in which the nine girls and boys represent a team on one side and the audience on the other. Balls are thrown into the audience from the stage, with the boys and girls as the pitchers and catchers. This feature of the good act proves uncommonly interesting. But the whole of the "young comic opera" is good. Miss Lillian Gohn, as "Sissy" Lath, is a cute little school boy. Francis Allen is the "Tony Maribacca." He sings "My Cousin Caruso," and the Gordon Brothers sing and dance "By the Light of the Silvery Moon."

Tom Barry, in his delicious travesty, "Nick Carter," is one of the star things of the very good bill this week. Everybody understands enough about the great boy detective to appreciate the good natured fun at his expense. Par-bley, the instrumentalist, is clean cut in his work and introduces some sure novelties, while Hilda Hawthorne, the singer and contralto, gives a good act. Harshington, the Japanese water bugler, who does his work on color plates, gives a big touch of juveness. The Three Jades in their acrobatic Risley act open the bill in a startling manner, and Rockway and Conway in a bit of everything prove interesting. Good motion pictures close the entertainment.

Performances will be given every afternoon and evening during the remainder of the week, with special seats for women at the matinees.

The second change in the program at the Star theatre this far this week became effective today, when all new motion pictures were shown. Tomorrow there will be a new talking picture and new illustrated songs, while on Friday there will be another complete change of motion pictures.

"The Romance of a Stranded Actress" is the talking picture theme, and it is one of the prettiest stories ever depicted in motion pictures. Don't fail to see it.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

The patrons of the Academy of Music are being treated, among other features, to a novel sketch, Eddie and Mae Shaw, in "The Messenger Boy and the Maid." Their work is of the rapid fire order, and the triple back dancing a novelty. Frank Carman exhibits wonderful control over the rolling hoops and his clever manipulation of double baton swinging is remarkable. Miss Caludia Desette sings illustrated songs. "Travellettes" views of the world and reels of the latest moving pictures complete a most excellent program. Tonight the "amateur contest will take place and the management has secured a large entry list of the best available talent in this vicinity. Roach and Hart appear in a character sketch, "Absurdity." Beltrah and Beltrah are seen in "The Musical Dairy."

THEATRE VOYONS

Following the great pictures of the first alrship crossing the English channel the Theatre Voyons will present a series of motion pictures taken in the Arctic regions. These pictures will give a very good idea of the region in which Cook and Peary traveled many miles and incidentally show how the game is hunted there. There will be a pleasing variety to the bill as several other strong picture are booked as well as some very laughable comedies. There will also be two illustrated songs sung by Lowell's best artists, Jack Manchester and May Whitley.

Kindling wood, at your storeman's. Insist on getting Quinn's, and note the difference, 5c bag.

HUNTING SEASON

For Small Game Opened in Maine

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 15.—The small game hunting season in Maine has arrived and sportsmen throughout the state are cleaning up their firearms and stocking up with ammunition. The open time on plover and snipe is already in effect and the law on ducks was off Sept. 1. Today saw the opening time on ruffed grouse or partridge and woodcock.

The big season opens Oct. 1 when the law on deer is off and continues until the 15th day of December. On moose it begins on Oct. 15 and continues until Dec. 1. The law is so strict that the number of deer that may be killed by one hunter in the same season is limited to one deer of either sex or one hunter. Only one bull moose may be lawfully killed under the moose law. A bull moose must be over a year old to be legally slain.

Caribou are protected by law at all seasons of the year. The law doesn't go off these animals until Oct. 15, 1911.

Deers, wolves and wildcats may be killed at all seasons of the year. Last year bears were not as plentiful as usual, but it is expected that they will prove more numerous this season.

A COURT MARTIAL

For Officer and Five
Enlisted Men

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—One officer and five enlisted men of the navy are to be court-martialed as the result of the capturing of the naval tug Nezahcote off Hallow Point, Mass., Aug. 11, when four men lost their lives. They are John G. Lawrence, naval constructor, and Frank R. Bitter, chief boatswain's mate, who were in charge of the lifeboat after the tug capsized; George H. Pratt, chief machinist's mate, William H. Fitzgerald, seaman, Vernon P. Tillotson, fireman first class, and Charles F. Underwood, fireman second class.

The general charge against Constructor Lawrence is neglect in not reporting any suspicious he may have had that the tug was unseaworthy while the charge against the enlisted men is that of abandoning several persons, including the captain, acting Surgeon Trotter and another, who were clinging to a raft or wreckage of the capsized vessel.

The court will meet next Monday at Portsmouth, N. H., from which place the Nezahcote was on her way to Boston at the time of the accident.

Rear Admiral Nathan E. Miles will be the president of the court and Naval Constructors David W. Taylor, W. J. Baxter and George H. Rock; Captains W. H. Sutherland, Charles E. Fox and Edmund B. Underwood and Commanders Patrick W. Hourigan and Joseph W. Oman will be the other members of the court. Lieut. William P. Cronan will be judge advocate. Surgeon Trotter was among those who lost their lives.

ARTILLERY HEADQUARTERS

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—That new headquarters for the coast artillery will be established at Fort Andrews, in Highland, was apparently indicated yesterday by orders received from Washington, authorizing the erection of thirteen new buildings at that fort. The orders were received by Robert F. Rolfe, constructing army quartermaster in Boston.

MEN WHO WILL ACCOMPANY PRESIDENT TAFT

PRESIDENT TAFT

Starts on His 13,500 Mile Swing
Around the Country

BOSTON, Sept. 15.—Well tanned by five weeks on the golf links and invigorated by the salt sea breezes of Massachusetts bay, President Taft closed his forty days' vacation today and in excellent voice started on his 13,500 mile swing around the country. As one member of the presidential party said, it will be a tour through a sea of upturns.

The president is looking forward to a delightful two months in which he will meet thousands of people and to whom his voice will carry strength and conviction as in the purposes of the new administration.

President Taft began his speaking-making tour last night at the banquet of the chamber of commerce of Boston. He will resume it in Chicago.

The presidential party was driven from the Hotel Touraine at 9:30 a. m. and boarded the special train of three cars at the South station. It was arranged to send this train ahead of the regular 10 a. m. train to Albany and the west, making it the first section with the regular train leaving as the second section. The South station was jammed today with incoming commuters who paused a few minutes in their rush to business to catch a glimpse of the busy figure of the chief magistrate as he started on his long trip.

SEEKS HIS WIFE

She Has Gone Away
With Child

FRAINTREE, Sept. 15.—Mrs. Emma W. Studley, 34, blonde, and described as "charming," has left town, and former Schoolman R. Allen Gage, 55, is also absent from home.

An ineffectual effort to learn the whereabouts of the woman has been made by her husband, Charles W. Studley, who is in business in Boston, and who, because of his large property holdings, is known about town as "the man who owns half of Braintree."

Mr. Studley's particular object in making the hunt is to regain possession of 11-year-old Olive Studley, whom the mother took with her.

Two other children—study appearing boys—are with the father in the luxurious furnished home at 23 Washington street, and the elder expressed their sentiment by saying: "We are going to stick by pa."

At the Gage residence in River street the statement was made that Mrs. Gage was not at home.

A daughter thus spoke of Mr. Gage's breakfast this morning Senator Crane of Massachusetts and former Secretary of the Treasury George B. Cortelyou. Senator Crane accompanied the president as far as Pittsfield. The president was also joined at the hotel by his aunt, Mrs. Della Torrey of Millbury, Mass., who accompanied him as far as Worcester, and by William Nelson Cromwell, who goes as far as Albany.

The president found his private car Mayflower awaiting him at the South station, while ahead of it was the auxiliary car Hazelmere, which takes the newspaper correspondents and the baggage car for the party. In addition there was the private car of Gen. Mrs. J. H. Hustis of the Boston & Albany division, who takes charge of the party as far as Albany, and a regular coach.

Secretary Nagel was among the crowd who waved the president off. The presidential train pulled out at 10:03 a. m. following train No. 46. It was planned to stop at Worcester, Springfield and Pittsfield, and it was anticipated that the president might make a few rear platform remarks at the last named station.

The president was in a joyful mood as the train started and waved a happy good-bye to his vacation in the Old Bay state.

absent: "Father has gone away on a vacation. We know where he is and are certain everything is all right. Whatever stories are in circulation have come from father's political enemies. My wife is waiting for me. I am leaving town. Gage resigned as schoolman. He was chairman of the board."

Several weeks previous he is said to have planned his business interests over to his son, who had been his manager. Mr. Gage was a coal dealer and also did an extensive trucking business.

Charles W. Studley said that his wife left Sept. 1, ostensibly for a stay with her parents in Cohasset. She did so to their home, but remained only a day. On departing, Mrs. Studley stated that she was going to visit her husband's sister, who also lives in Cohasset.

Rat, according to Mr. Studley, she did not go so, and the trail ends at the railroad station. Mr. Gage went away a day or two after Mrs. Studley.

ROME, Sept. 15.—A despatch from Portici, on the Bay of Naples, to the Giornale de Italia says that Venizius again is followed. Guides report rumblings followed by slight seismic shocks. The small internal craters have been unusually active in the last few days.

BROTHERS
Are Charged With Robberies in Massachusetts Cities

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 15.—Two men were arrested here yesterday afternoon who are wanted in a dozen Massachusetts cities and towns for breaking and entering and stealing thousands of dollars worth of property.

They are George R. Searebay, alias Dr. John R. Renfrew, alias Dr. J. B. Johnson and also known as Dr. J. B. Allen, who has spent 13 years of his life in prison and is now about 45 years old, and his brother, Harold H. Searebay, 28 years old, who, as far as known, has no criminal record.

For six months complaints have come to the police in many southern Massachusetts cities of the operations of the brothers.

It is alleged that they have stolen millinery, furs, jewelry and other articles valued at more than $3000. The older brother was released from the Massachusetts state prison in Salem, in April, 1893, he was sent to state prison for from six to eight years for breaking and entering. In September, 1898, at Dedham, Mass., he was sentenced to state prison for from four to six years in addition.

Young Searebay told the police that his brother did all the inside work in their thieving expeditions, while his duty was to remain outside and stand guard.

SNAPSHOTS AT HARRIMAN FUNERAL: FIVE OF HIS BUSINESS ASSOCIATES

ARDEN, Sept. 15.—Prominent among the few business associates of the late Edward H. Harriman, who attended his funeral were the five men in the accompanying group. They are: No. 1, Jacob H. Schiff; No. 2, Marcus H. Hahn; No. 3, L. F. Loree; No. 4, John W. Sterling; No. 5, Julius Kruttschnitt. These men, with Judge Robert S. Lovett, now have practically in charge the vast affairs of the dead financier. The future plan of operating his railroads is not known at present to any one, not even these men who were his close associates in life. It is known that Mr. Harriman's affairs were in perfect shape, but the independent and collective operation of the railroads which he controlled, and those lines in which he held minor interests, is such a tremendous undertaking that the problem probably will not be worked out for many months.

And over and above all spread the intangible, but nevertheless potent personal presence of the one man who above all others in the country embodied the sentiment that has made of the United States the greatest nation in the world.

speech was at his emphatic reference to the just and impartial enforcement of the law to weak and strong alike. As the president thundered out his periods on this subject, his judicial training and his respect for the law stood out all over him, and carried to the audience an impression that on law enforcement there was a man in the president's chair who, when the occasion arose, would be as unflinching as adamant.

The tariff, to the making of which Governor Draper had paid the president a well-earned compliment, came in for but brief and hurried mention. President Taft said he would avoid that subject here in the east, as he needed some ammunition for his western speech-making tour.

Dreaded the Trip

A laughable incident that tickled the president almost as much as it did the diners was when in telling of his coming tour of the west the president stated that he came to the figures for the mileage and laughingly said that he thought it was 17,000 rather than 12,000 miles he would have to travel, and laughingly added that sometimes secretaries are great helps.

The president referred to the coming trip as one that he dreaded, yet at the same time anticipated with pleasure. It would give to the people of the country the chance to see the man whom they had chosen to act temporarily as the nation's executive. And it would also give him the opportunity of personally meeting multitudes of citizens and telling them the views of a responsible executive on important questions as against the views of honest but irresponsible critics.

The president said that some time ago he had been waited on by a committee of the chamber of commerce, headed by Frederick P. Fish, and asked to make an address at the dinner, bearing in mind the endless amount of talking he would have to do on his western trip, he told the committee that he feared he would run out of material. To this Mr. Fish said that he would expect to make only a commonplace speech.

Chuckling over his interpretation, the president said that he was making a commonplace speech, and if it did not hit the diners right they could not blame him, as he was only following out instructions of the committee.

As he went into his speech Mr. Taft departed from his humorous vein and spoke deeply and emphatically of the pertinent questions now before the country for solution. He put especial emphasis on the hope that the country might soon have a solid monetary policy and said extended compliment to Secretary Aldrich for his knowledge and efforts for monetary reform.

The president spoke a little more than half an hour and closed with well wishes for the future of the chamber of commerce organization and the welfare of the country.

At the close of his speech the president left the hall by the West Newton street entrance and entering the carriage drawn by four beautiful bays was escorted by the Lancers to the Touring for the night.

ORDER OF RED MEN

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 15.—The improved Order of Red Men in convention yesterday voted to establish a uniform per capita tax in all of the states. Years ago to stimulate membership growth, it was enacted that after a state jurisdiction attained 30,000 members, it should be taxed less than states with smaller membership. The question as to whether biennial or annual meetings of the order shall be held in the future has not yet been definitely settled.

Enthusiastic and Brief

Its greatness was never more fittingly typified than by the larger-hearted, genial president, who in one of his best and happiest vein made one of the most human speeches in his career—a speech that, catching the vast enthusiasm that surged through the vast hall, brought forth round after round of hearty cheers and comments of amused and gratified satisfaction.

Perhaps the almost unusual feature of the banquet in its entirety was the brevity of it. Although there were speeches by the governor, and of necessity by the presiding officer, both speeches were filled with brilliant quips and turns of speech that kept the enthusiasm of the diners to a fever pitch and still were brief enough to please everyone.

President Storror's Absence

Vice-President Rothwell in his opening speech of welcome, referred feelingly to the unavoidable absence of President James J. Storror, and called out the first cheers of the evening at the mention of Mr. Storror's name. Continuing he regretted Mr. Storror's untimely but unavoidable absence and wished for the speedy recovery of his son from the sickness that called him to his side in far-off Germany.

In the absence of Mayor Hibbard, the local welcome fell to the task of Governor Draper, who in a brief, happy speech, extended to President Taft the welcome of the commonwealth, which, on account of the prolonged tariff discussion, had to be so long delayed.

2000 Cheer President

When President Rothwell came to the president's introduction he had hardly started to speak when the entire assembly was on its feet, cheering and waving napkins in a vociferous welcome to the president. A moment of this and Mr. Rothwell's voice could be heard trying to say a few perfunctory words of introduction. He was allowed to remark that the next speaker on the program needed no introduction, when the crowd of enthusiastic diners, sensing the situation, was again on its feet cheering wildly the smiling president. For a full minute the cheering and waving of napkins was of a desultory nature, until J. Payson Bradley, jumping upon a table, called for three rousing cheers for the president.

Turns Joke on Draper

In a naive turned reference to Governor Draper's story of his failure to catch the president to welcome him at the numerous church picnics and social affairs he was obliged to attend, the president laughingly said that in the west the governor's motives might have been construed as being for personal political advancement but he did not know how they would be looked upon here in Massachusetts. Everyone quickly saw the point and Governor Draper had in sit and take the good natured chiding that went with the general laugh that greeted the president's reply.

The president referred to the happy, though brief, vacation he had had in Massachusetts and paid high compliments to the action along the North Shore with which he has become familiar through his many motor trips. He said he had endeavored to keep within the speed limit on his motor trips and was confident that he could convince any fair-minded judge of his intention of doing so. He paid an indirect compliment to the Metropolitan Park system, of which he considered the North Shore landscape layout was an extension.

For Law's Enforcement

But the greatest round of applause that greeted the president during his

RAISING AN ARMY

Former Lowell Man is Planning to Aid Greece

HAVERHILL, Sept. 15.—The Hellenic youths in Haverhill will soon be given an opportunity to show their patriotism for Greece.

If the plans of leaders in this state are carried out, Constantine Moustaklis of Salem, formerly a Greek organizer in Lowell and Lynn, will visit this city to organize the entire Greek male population into an armed body, which in a few months will be ready to start to their fatherland and take part in the conflict between Greece and Turkey which, it is feared, will follow the political elections in Crete next March.

The movement is one of interest to the country over. As Mr. Moustaklis said yesterday, it shows the love for Greece, which her American sons bear to their country.

"It appears that Greece is on the eve of war with Turkey," said he. "Next March the Cretans elect their officers, and if things are not just satisfactory Turkey will reject them and war is expected. It appears to the Greek consul that a greater portion of the Hellenic youths are in America, and it is to land them together and train them for actual warfare that we intend to send our efforts from now on."

"What we intend to do in Haverhill is just what we have done in Lowell, Salem and Lynn, as well as Boston, where there is a large Greek population. The idea is to get the entire Greek people interested, form an army, provide them with weapons and drill them. It is one of the biggest movements in the country from a Greek standpoint."

"In Haverhill, I believe that there are about 1200 Greeks and in Newburyport and Amesbury almost as many more. We shall train them, have headquarters and provide some sort of daily recreation to stimulate the interest."

"I shall be in Haverhill again as soon as time will permit, and will then take hold of the matter more fully. I have come to the conclusion that the movement will work well in this state, as it seems to have in other states. I have no doubt that the governor will permit the men to carry weapons. We shall train the soldiers and then next March, in the event of war, we will be able to ship a big army to the scene of war, thereby adding, we believe, great strength to the Greek force."

"We expect to have a picnic war and the territory, although not yet decided, will probably be in northeastern Massachusetts, not far distant from Haverhill, Lynn, Salem, Lawrence, Manchester, N. H., Lowell and Boston. Although we have not much time I feel sure that we can do something which will show our brothers in Greece that we are loyal to them."

"This is being carried on here because it would not be expedient for many of our countrymen to go to Greece and train there with the regular army."

Mr. Moustaklis is well known in this city, as about 12 years ago he kept a confectionary store on Merrimack street. Since then he has been graduated from Boston university and has risen to a high place of trust in the estimation of his fellow countrymen.

FERON REFUSES

To Return Without Extradition Papers

Henri Feron, the alleged murderer of Mrs. Flora Rivers, who was arrested in Megantic, P. Q., has now refused to come back to Lowell until formal extradition papers are issued.

Deputy Welch who went to Megantic, Sunday last that Feron would accompany him back to Lowell without any trouble, but yesterday he notified Acting Supt. Brosnan that Feron had refused to go back without the formality of extradition papers. District Attorney Higgins was notified at once and the papers will be made out with all speed, forwarded to Washington for official signatures and within 10 days it is expected that Feron will be on his way here.

DEATH OF WOMAN

To be Investigated by the
Town Officials

MILFORD, N. H., Sept. 15.—The authorities of Milford and Mount Vernon, a village near here, are investigating the death of Mrs. Mary Jane Dalton Boutwell, aged 50 years, wife of Harry Boutwell of Mount Vernon. By order of the town officials, the funeral, which was to have been held today from the rooms of a Milford undertaker, has been deferred to enable the medical referee to examine the body.

Mrs. Boutwell was found in bed in an unconscious condition last Saturday night by her husband. There was a long black bruise under the woman's ear, extending down the neck. Investigating further, Boutwell found part of his wife's set of false teeth outside the house near the doorstep. At the time the town officials understood that death was due to natural causes.

Yesterday Constable John Follansbee of Mount Vernon, who had been informed of the discoloration on the neck of Mrs. Boutwell, began an investigation. He came here and consulted Chief of Police James W. Ryan of Milford. Chief Ryan decided to refuse to permit the funeral today, and the medical referee and other authorities of Hillsborough county were notified.

It is reported that a mail was seen near the Boutwell house Saturday afternoon acting peculiarly.

BIG AUTO RUN

RELIABILITY CONTEST FROM WASHINGTON TO BOSTON

Entries in the Frank A. Munsey Reliability contest closed Sept. 11th with 37 cars nominated to make the run from Washington to Boston and return, Sept. 21-23. The entry list exceeds that of this year's Golden tour by seven, while the number of different makes is 32 as against 17 in the Golden.

As this tour takes the contestants through all the principal cities of the east, including New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Albany, Baltimore, Hartford, Springfield and Atlantic City, automobile manufacturers have been quick to recognize the advantages of participation in the event. Seventeen of them have entered 1910 models, while ten automobile dealers and six private owners in various cities are also included in the lineup.

The competing cars will be run in six divisions, according to price, and there will be a trophy for the winner in each division, with a grand sweepstakes prize for the car making the most perfect score in any division. In addition, the entrance money will be divided among the six winning drivers.

JAMES J. HILL

Says That Agriculture
Must be Developed

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Warning that the United States may soon cease to be an exporter of foodstuffs was given to the American Bankers' association yesterday by James J. Hill, chairman of the board of the Great Northern railway.

All through the address Mr. Hill sought to impress on the banker delegates that future prosperity is to come in the development of agriculture rather than in an extension of foreign markets for manufactured goods. The speech was received with deep attention by the delegates. It followed an address by Lawrence O. Murray, controller of the currency, which emphasized the necessity of co-operation between the controller and the national bank examiners, and pointed out that the bank examinations have been raised to a systematic investigation by training officers.

Earlier in the day in his annual address President George M. Reynolds declared in favor of a central bank with a capitalization of not less than $100,000,000 as a means of avoiding financial disaster similar to the panic of 1907.

The delegates were welcomed by Illinois and Chicago by Charles S. Denen and Joseph T. Talbot, president of the Chicago Clearing House association.

A pause in the regular program of the day was made to permit Speaker Cannon to address the bankers and later the reports of the secretary and treasurer were read, showing the association in point of membership and financial standing to be in excellent condition.

Some criticism of the express companies acting in a dual capacity as bankers and common carriers was included in the report of the express companies and a committee, which reviewed the course of the litigation by which the association is seeking to oust the express companies from the banking field.

The resolutions adopted at the conference on the bill of lading subject on Monday will be taken up later in the convention.

At the closing session of the convention of the National Association of Supervisors, resolutions were adopted favoring the plan of Comptroller Murray for co-operation between the state and national bank examiners, and a general discussion of financial questions was held.

While no definite announcement has been made, it is generally understood that the next president of the American Bankers' association will be Lewis E. Pierson, president of the Irving National bank of New York, now vice president of the organization.

BIG RAILWAY

WAS PURCHASED BY AMERICAN AMBASSADOR

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 15.—David E. Thompson, United States ambassador to Mexico, yesterday secured control of the Pan-American railway, a line extending from San Geronimo, on the Tehuantepec National railway to Mariscal, a town on the Mexican-Guatemalan frontier. Ambassador Thompson said he did not make public the purchase price but said that he would have the controlling interest in the property having secured by purchase $9,600,000 worth of the stock. The line, which is 244 miles in length, was formerly owned by Los Angeles and St. Louis capitalists.

It is said in railway circles here that the road will some day be a part of the greater Pan-American line which will afford an all-rail connection between the canal zone and the principal regions of the United States.

CHAS. F. McKIM

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Charles F. McKim, head of the firm of McKim, Mead & White, architects, died suddenly yesterday at his country home in St. James, Long Island, of heart disease. He had been in ill health for some time, but his death was unexpected.

Mr. McKim, who was 62 years old, was a graduate of the Lawrence Scientific school, Harvard, and of the Ecole des Beaux Arts, Paris. He had received honorary degrees from Harvard, Bowdoin and other colleges.

Mr. McKim's death leaves William R. Mead as the only surviving member of the partnership which the two, with the late Stanford White, formed in 1873, and which has produced some of the most brilliant and important architecture in the United States. The long list of notable buildings erected by the firm includes the Columbia University, University of the City of New York, University of Virginia, Woman's college at Baltimore, Rhode Island state capital, Madison Square Garden, Walker art gallery (Bowdoin college), Boston public library, Newport casino, Bank of Montreal and the New York Life Assurance company's office building in New York, Kansas City and Oklahoma.

Mr. McKim was a member of many societies, art commissions and clubs. He was founder of the American academy in Rome and a member of the National academy. In 1907, King Edward awarded him a royal gold medal.

WORKMEN INJURED

In Collapse of Old Howe St. Tannery Building

Two in Hospital Will Recover—Fire Started Later—Total Damage Estimated at $250,000—Collapse Had Been Expected—Inspector Dow Says Building Should Have Been Condemned Ten Years Ago

With a mighty roar and a crash that struck terror to the hearts of all who heard them the unsightly and malodorous frame tannery building in Howe street collapsed about 5 o'clock last evening, enveloping two workmen in a pile of debris and endangering the lives of several others. By one of those inexplicable freaks of fate the disaster held off just long enough to permit a large gang of men who had been working there, to clear the doomed building, for had the accident occurred 15 minutes earlier serious loss of life undoubtedly would have resulted.

The injured are:

Peter Rivet of 352 Stackpole street, a broken rib, abrasions in the back and injuries to the left hip and thigh, taken to St. John's hospital.

George Lewis, a Greek, of 578 Market street, abrasions in the back and three fingers crushed, taken to St. John's hospital.

Stephen K. Chase, of Mt. Hope street, abrasions in left arm, left knee and head, and wrenched shoulder, taken to his home.

Patrick Regan, John King and one McMullin escaped injury by jumping from a second story window.

An hour after the collapse of the building a fire broke out in the debris and caused, it is alleged, a loss of about $250,000, a large stock of valuable hides being destroyed by fire and water.

DENOUNCED AS A MENACE TO PUBLIC HEALTH.

The residents in the vicinity of the Howe street tannery say that it is an intolerable nuisance that should have been condemned many years ago. It has rendered some property in the vicinity uninhabitable and greatly reduced the value of other property. The people are hoping that this accident will result in the removal of the tannery to the outskirts of the city where it will not be a menace to public health.

Story of the Accident

The old building on Howe street is owned and used by the American Hide & Leather Company for the sorting, trimming and cleaning of hides, and has long been a nuisance to that section of the community. The building was a ramshackle affair, originally a few stories in height, with back up to the second story and wood above. In recent years additions have been made without any regard to strengthening of the underpinning until the building stood at the time of its collapse. It was a tall, narrow structure, with a steeply pitched roof, and with an aspect from the street similar to that of the old heated bathing tower of Bath. The walls consisted of staves, and the roof was made of planks and rafters. The building was a great nuisance to the neighborhood from time to time.

The accident occurred with only the warning of a second or more. With the exception of Rivet, the men mentioned above were in the building sorting hides, while Rivet was standing in the wagon in Howe street unloading more hides.

Suddenly a crash was heard followed by a most unusual rumbling sound and then the entire Howe street end of the building came down in a heap, crashing through the smaller building adjoining it and tearing down the telegraph poles and wires in front of the building in Howe street.

In the flying mass of lumber, hides, etc., these men were hurled down under the mass of debris. The crash of the collapse was heard throughout the district and in a twinkling Howe and East Merrimack streets were filled with terror-stricken people. The women and children of the Polish colony nearby, whose husbands and fathers, in many cases, were employed in the tannery, poured into the streets screaming with terror. An ambulance call was sent in, followed by a fire alarm from box 131, while hundreds started the work of rescuing the men under the debris, who could be plainly seen, and one Paul Hogan, George W. Lincoln and Ernest Peterson, were among the first on the scene, as were Rev. F. J. Sullivan, O. M. L., and Tizio, O. M. L., of the Conventual Conception and Sacred Heart churches, respectively, and with the other employees of the tannery they went fearlessly into the ruins and in a few minutes pulled the injured men to a place of safety.

The two ambulances, one driven by Dr. J. H. Sparks himself, were quickly on the scene, for Dr. Sparks upon learning that several men had been buried, having no other at his side, at the time he saw the train himself, while the fire department also responded. At that time there was no fire but the ladders were used to good advantage.

In a short time the injured men were hurried to St. John's hospital, except Mr. Chase, who declined to go. Homecoming Arthur Merrill, superintendent of the building, but found the door of his company and made the statement that the employees had been taken out and that the building had been condemned for fire and that the fire department arrived on a most interesting note that the building was a great nuisance to the neighborhood from time to time.

of the building was left standing, though badly out of plumb and threatened to come down at any moment. All was confusion for some time, as the friends of the employees having learned of the disaster, appeared on the scene, excitedly inquiring for the names of the injured.

JEWISH FAMILIES

TO BE PERMITTED TO GO TO PALESTINE

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—A despatch has been received in London from Constantinople stating that, in accordance with their request, the Turkish government has granted permission to the 19,000 Jewish families of Russia, who recently organized for the purpose, to settle in Palestine and Syria.

This request of the government was addressed before the restrictions against Jewish immigration were abolished in Turkey. The abolition of these restrictions is coincident with the granting of the request.

Since the establishment of the constitutional government in Turkey, many Jewish families in Russia have been planning to emigrate to Palestine, and associations for the purchase of land and for settlement in the Holy Land were organized in many cities. The 19,000 families in question represent the association of several cities.

PERU AND BOLIVIA

Said to Have Arrived at an Agreement

RIO JANEIRO, Sept. 15.—The Journal of Commerce in its issue of yesterday said that telegrams from the Pacific coast announced that an agreement between the governments of Peru and Bolivia on the recent boundary dispute which one time threatened to plunge these states into war had been reached on the point of being signed. The basis of the understanding is the decision in this dispute handed down by President Alotia of Argentina on July 5 last and this decision is by the terms of the new agreement recognized by Bolivia.

According to the Journal of Commerce, Peru surrenders to Bolivia a very small extent of territory lying between the Madre de Dios river and the Beni river. The Beni river, an affluent of the Beni river, is traversed by the river Tabuamano and Buhamano, which together form the river Orton. An affluent of the Beni river, this territory with an area of about 6500 square kilometers was discovered and colonized by Bolivians who today are in possession of two prosperous industries there. Peru gets all the upper course of the Madre de Dios from its headwaters to its confluence with the river Heath.

Such a slight modification as the foregoing from the decision reached by the arbitrator in no way molests the

Colombia and Venezuela was almost a complete victory for Colombia. Venezuela did not want to accept the finding and Spain neither protested nor indicated that she was offended. Venezuela and Colombia have just signed a treaty settling the sovereignty in favor of Venezuela of a vast stretch of territory on the right bank of the Rio Negro. In the Courell question between Colombia and Italy the arbitrator, who was Grover Cleveland, decided in favor of Italy. The diplomatic representative of Colombia at Washington in an official note declared that his government could not accept this decision. But the American government did not expel the Colombian government nor did it strive to impose the sentence of the arbitrator on Colombia.

"We think that the Brazilian government," the Journal of Commerce continues, "in no way participated in the discussions which have been conducted at La Paz and Lima and furthermore are aware that the Peruvian government has recognized and declared its belief in the correctness of the course of Brazil in this question. Public opinion in Brazil is sincerely desirous that Peru in the interest of peace and concord should herself friendly to Bolivia, her neighbor and former ally, and concede to her the little she asks. Such a step would mean no important sacrifice to Peru nor would it show any lack of courtesy to Argentina. The essential thing for South America is that the present complications and difficulties be done away with as soon as possible. It is today impossible to forecast the dangerous consequences of a continuance of the recent situation. The present difficulty once composed the road will be open for conciliation between Argentina and Bolivia, which it is hoped other nations also will follow."

TANNERY FELL

The Collapse Had Been Expected

By 5.30 o'clock the excitement had subsided, though hundreds crowded the streets in the vicinity to inspect the ruins and discuss the cause of the accident. The reporter of The Sun was held up by as many as a dozen men with the statements: "That's been expected for a long time," or "That wall has been threatening to cave in for several years."

Fire Broke Out

At 6.45 an alarm from box 131 attracted attention to the scene again and the fire department upon arriving found a lively blaze in progress among the contents and ruins of the building. Owing to the unsafe condition of the ruins the firemen were forced to proceed cautiously in fighting the flames and before the recall sounded, the entire stock of hides, valued, it is said, at about one quarter of a million dollars, was totally destroyed.

Mr. L. S. Paulin, of the Fred C. Church Insurance company, who was on the scene, stated to the writer that the company carried about $200,000 insurance on the stock. The firemen were kept busy for two hours.

A Valuable Stock

An official of the company said that if any water should strike the hides or if a hole were torn in them, the skins were rendered useless. The volumes of water poured upon the ruins later in the evening, accordingly, probably made the loss of the skins complete, and there is little hope that many of them will be fit for use.

This department handles from 30,000 to 40,000 skins a week, and each skin is perfect when it arrives, there being less than one per cent. of second class skins in the place at any time. These hides are perishable at any stage from the time they are received until they go through the tanning process, and the slightest change of weather, or condition may spoil them for use.

Mr. Chase's Experience

Mr. Steven K. Chase of Mt. Hope street was the only one of the three injured men in condition to make a statement immediately after the accident occurred. He was employed as a trimmer on the top or fifth floor and how he escaped as he did is beyond explanation. He was cutting hides when he heard a tremendous crash and in an instant found himself being carried along with a mass of timbers, beams and hides. When the mass became motionless he found himself held down by one foot under a piece of timber. He managed to free himself and upon reaching the street started at once to assist in digging out the others. He didn't realize that he had been injured for some little time when his shoulder began to trouble him and then he found that he had been cut on the head, leg and arm as well as having wrenched his shoulder.

Had Narrow Escape
Arthur Merrill, who is superintendent of that part of the plant, was not in the building when the accident happened but was on hand a moment later. He was at a loss to account for the accident and stated that conditions were no different there yesterday than they had been in the past and he did not believe that there were as many skins in the building as usual.

Had the accident happened five minutes earlier a gang of men would have been working directly under the part that collapsed, but all had left for another part of the tannery a few minutes before. The engineer also escaped by going to another part of the building a few minutes before the collapse.

Horses Escaped

The wagon which Rivet drove and on which he was standing when the pile came down on him was completely buried, but by a strange feature the two horses attached to it escaped without injury.

Cause of the Accident

There is but one cause for the accident, and that is the fact that the building was old, settled and overweighted. Even if the amount of hides in the building yesterday was not as great as formerly the collapse was inevitable for the building had lasted to its limit. The collapse came from the first or brick story rather than from the top of the building. The brick walls bulged out and the underpinning giving out the superstructure had to come down.

Inspector Dow Condemns Building
Building Inspector Dow, accompanied

by State Inspectors Ball and Roche, inspected the ruins this morning and Mr. Dow immediately ordered all employees out of the building and ordered the company to tear down the remains of the structure.

"The building cannot be repaired," said Inspector Dow, "it must come down. The underpinning is no good and the building should have been condemned ten years ago. When people know of the condition of a building such as this they should call the attention of the building inspector to it at once. We do not make inspections unless a complaint is made. The law requires an inspection of new or altered buildings, but once a building is erected and passed by inspector it may be used until it crumbles away with old age."

MATRIMONIAL

The marriage of Mr. Henri Desranleau of Notre Dame de Sunbridge, Que., and Miss Pamela Robert, daughter of Mr. Vital Robert of this city, took place yesterday at St. Joseph's church at a nuptial mass celebrated by Rev. Fr. Baren, O. M. I. Mr. Robert attended his daughter, while the bridegroom was attended by a brother of the bride, Mr. Arthur Robert. The bride's gown was of white mousseline de soie, and she wore a tulle veil and carried white roses. During the mass a musical program was given by the choir of the Congregation de Notre Dame de Lourdes, of which the bride was a member.

After the ceremony, breakfast was served at the bride's home, 33 Fifth avenue, the guests being the relatives only. Shortly afterward, Mr. and Mrs. Desranleau took the train for Canada, where they will reside.

BRODEUR-BISCORNET

Mr. Arthur Brodeur and Miss Annie Etta Biscornet were married Monday morning at St. Joseph's rectory where the ceremony was performed with a mass in the private chapel at 9 o'clock. Rev. Fr. Brullard, O. M. I., officiated. Mr. James Brodeur was best man and Miss Bertha Biscornet, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. The bride wore white muslin and carried white sweet peas. The bridegroom wore pink muslin and carried pink roses. Breakfast was served after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Brodeur, 8 Harvard street. The guests included only relatives. At noon Mr. and Mrs. Brodeur left on a trip to New York and Hudson river where they will be during the Hudson Carnival week. They have received many handsome gifts, and upon their return they will reside at 6 Harvard street.

Coggeshall of Beacon street, this city, and Prof. Nathan Pulsifer of Tufts college were married Tuesday evening, the 13th, at the Coggeshall camp and studio, Lancaster, Cape Ann. The wedding was one of the prettiest in the history of Cape Ann. The bride party entered the studio, which was prettily decorated, preceded by nine little flower girls dressed in white, also singing the wedding march. These were followed by four ushers. Mr. Lovell Brown of New York, Mr. Warren Fox of Braintree, Mr. Lawrence and Mr. Ralph Shepard of Hartford, Conn. Miss Marion Hovey of Lowell was maid of honor. The bride ring bearer was Clarence Larson of Lancaster. The bride was attired in white tulle with the conventional bride's veil and carried pink roses. She entered the spacious studio on the arm of her father, Prof. Morse of New Britain, Conn. was groomsmen, and the officiating clergyman was Rev. Mr. Marvin of Franklin, assisted by Rev. Charles T. Baylis, D. D., of Brookline, N. Y. The bride was given away by her father and the double ring ceremony was used. Nearly 200 guests were present, and the gathering was a profitable one, nearly every state in the Union being represented, besides the large number of local friends.

WALL ST. PLEASED

Over the Election of J. P. Morgan, Jr.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—J. P. Morgan, Jr., was elected yesterday to the late E. H. Harriman's place on the board of directors of the National City bank. By Wall street the election is regarded as one of the most significant of the week's financial developments, presumably indicating that harmonious relations exist between the Morgan and the Kuhn-Loeb-Standard Oil groups of financiers. Added weight was given the event because it followed so closely upon the recent reports that the Morgan interests were about to take an active interest in the government of the Harriman roads, and that the younger Morgan was slated as the ultimate successor of Mr. Harriman in the command of the Union and Southern Pacific systems.

The National City bank, largest of the nation's financial institutions, is controlled by the Kuhn-Loeb-Standard Oil interests, which Monday assumed a commanding position, for the time being at least, in the executive committee of the Union Pacific. George W. Perkins of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. is also a director of the bank and the additional resignation given the firm yesterday was taken in the financial district to mean not merely the existence of an "entente cordiale," but the consummation of an active working alliance between the two great groups of American financiers.

The National City bank, referred to as the "general public" as the "Standard Oil bank," has resources aggregating more than $300,000,000, while the First National, known as the "Morgan bank," has resources approximating $150,000,000. The tremendous resources of the two combined is at once apparent. The commanding position which the National City bank interests now hold in the Harriman railroads is indicated by the fact that four of the six members of the reconstructed executive committee of the Union Pacific are directors in the bank—Jacob H. Schiff, William Rockefeller, Frank A. Vanderbilt and Henry C. Frick.

The changes made in the Southern Pacific directorate at the meeting yesterday, as a result of Mr. Harriman's death, were precisely the same as those made in the Union Pacific directorate Monday, and were in line with the general expectation. Judge Lovett succeeded Mr. Harriman as chairman of the executive committee, while Jacob H. Schiff and William Rockefeller were elected directors and made members of the enlarged executive committee. As was the case at the Union Pacific meeting, action was taken in the matter of electing a successor to Mr. Harriman as president.

The Harriman stocks moved upwards on the market yesterday largely, however, in compliance with the recent optimistic reports of the future plans of the financier's supposed successors.

LATEST THE COOK DINNER

Many Are Anxious to Meet the Arctic Explorer

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The sale of tickets for the welcome-home banquet to Dr. Frederick A. Cook which opened today satisfied the committee in charge that there are plenty of people who have faith enough in the Brooklyn explorer's claim to pay five dollars a piece for the privilege of attending that function. Dr. Roswell O. Stebbins, chairman of the executive committee of the Arctic club which is arranging the dinner, said that up to noon he had received 200 applications for seats.

The banquet will occur at the Waldorf-Astoria on the evening of September 25, two days after Dr. Cook's expected arrival. Since the number of guests is limited to 1200 the committee believes that the demand for seats will exceed the supply and is taking precautions to keep tickets out of the hands of speculators. Purchasers must give their names and addresses, and no person is permitted to buy more than one ticket.

The Cook welcoming committee of the Arctic club declares also that there is a big demand for tickets for the steamer Grand Republic on which a delegation will go down the harbor to meet Dr. Cook and transfer him from his steamer, the Oscar II, at quarantine.

Because it is now certain that Commander Peary will not arrive until some time later, preparations for meeting him are still in abeyance. It is believed that public officers, national, state and city, will hesitate to participate officially in the welcome to either claimant of Arctic honors while the controversy between them is still unsettled. Acting Mayor McGowan said today that nothing had been done by the city toward recognizing the arrival of Dr. Cook. Mayor McClellan left town yesterday without acting on the memorandum regarding Dr. Cook which Acting Mayor McGowan says he left on his desk.

"It is the old story of a prophet not being without honor save in his own country," said Mr. McGowan today.

MINISTER EDDY RETIRES

BUKHAREST, Rumania, Sept. 15.—Spencer F. Eddy of Chicago has sent in his resignation from the diplomatic corps to President Taft.

Mr. Eddy is at present United States minister to Rumania and Serbia. His last post was minister to Argentina which country he left last January for Bukharest.

Mr. Eddy's decision to abandon the diplomatic service after a successful career therein is due to personal reasons, chiefly continued illness in his family. Mrs. Eddy, who is now in Paris, has not been well enough to join her husband here. Furthermore, certain pressing business matters in the United States compel Mr. Eddy's presence in Chicago and San Francisco during the coming winter.

YOUNG WOMAN MURDERED

CANAL DOVER, Ohio, Sept. 15.—A mysterious murder is thought to have been unearthed when the body of Miss Florence Weber, 20 years old, was found today in Tuscarawas river. Miss Weber disappeared Monday night from her home in response to a telephone call, her father says. He believes his daughter was murdered and her body thrown into the river. Many bruises were found on the body.

Miss Weber was recently employed in the exchange of the Cuyahoga Telephone Co. in Cleveland.

THE ROOSEVELT TEST

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The Roosevelt riding test for the officers of the army is a detriment to the service rather than an aid in increasing its efficiency.

This in substance is the severe criticism of the tests made by Gen. Albert L. Myers, commanding the department of Texas, in his annual report. "There are many very efficient and valuable field officers," he said, "particularly in the staff and supply departments, who would never in any circumstances be required to make any such ride."

Gen. Myers favors yearly physical examinations of all officers, to ascertain their fitness for the peculiar duties they are likely to be called upon to perform.

city were most pleasing. He explained the changes that were made in the laws and statutes of the order and said that these changes were adopted only after great deliberation and discussion. Mr. Duff gave a very entertaining talk on the number of side trips that were provided by the committee in charge of arrangements in Los Angeles. During the evening several candidates were initiated, and it was announced that at the next meeting of the lodge in October there will be a class initiation at which it is expected a large number of candidates will be admitted to membership.

The ambulance was summoned, but before it arrived he recovered consciousness, and after receiving treatment at the Lowell hospital was taken to his home.

ANNUAL FAIR

By the Middlesex North Agricultural Society

UNDER AUSPICES OF CHELMSFORD GRANGE

Fair Opened in Chelmsford Town Hall Today—Fine Display of Fruit, Vegetables and Poultry—Big Day Tomorrow

The annual fair of the Middlesex North Agricultural society, under the auspices of the Chelmsford grange, opened in the town hall at Chelmsford today. The crowd today was very large, but tomorrow is the big day and a big crowd is expected.

It might be said that things were only being put in shape today. The farmers' dinner, which was up to the usual high standard, was served in Odd Fellows hall just across the street from the postoffice.

The feature of the afternoon was a grand exhibit of ladies and gentlemen's driving and family horses. There was a goodly number of entries and the feature was a very pleasant and a very pretty one. A number of gracious young women held the ribbons over prancing horses and related stylish litches. The scene of this exhibit was the road in front of the town hall.

Four granges are competing for honors on the upper floor of the hall, and their exhibits were being put in order when the representative for The Sun called this afternoon. The reporter, however, saw enough to convince him that the grangers would be proud, and justly so, of their exhibits. Coupled with the display of fruit and vegetables there were many samples of woman's handiwork, including home-made quilts, bed covers, sofa pillow tops, centre-pieces and other articles of fancy work too numerous to mention.

The lower floor is devoted to individual fruit, vegetable and poultry displays, with a few guinea pigs, pigeons and cats thrown in, and the reporter noticed that the cats were receiving more attention than all the others put together.

The individual vegetable exhibition on the first floor includes specimens of turnips, potatoes, muskmelons, blood beets, mangel beets, tomatoes, etc., that would be hard to beat. All of the specimens are large and perfect. Included in this exhibition is a bunch of peanuts grown by A. H. Davis of Chelmsford and they constitute a very odd and very attractive feature. The peanuts are full grown and look the real thing. As to the writer is not in a position to say for he did not dare to sample the precious things.

In another place in the hall, the reporter came across a bean-stalk. It was well loaded and was labelled: "What two beans can do." The writer is not keeping open all evening and there will be a concert by the Chelmsford brass band.

The society is offering $600 in premiums and tomorrow will be the big day. The program for tomorrow is as follows: Ten a. m. exhibit of draught horses and prize cattle. 12 m. Farmers' dinner. 3 m. by the Chelmsford band. Two p. m. baby show, pony show and sports.

WOMEN'S BRANCH

OF PEOPLE'S CLUB OPENS FRIDAY EVENING, OCT. 1

The Women's Branch of the People's club opens Friday evening, Oct. 1, at Russell building, Merrimack square.

To those to whom the work of the organization may not be familiar a word or two may be said in explanation.

The People's club is not a new organization. On the contrary it is one of the oldest in our city. It is entirely non-sectarian in character and is divided into two separate branches. The Men's Branch is in John street. Here is a fine reading room where all the popular magazines and local and Boston papers can be found. Besides this there is a well stocked library.

The Women's Branch seeks to provide a pleasant evening home for all women and girls who care to visit it. Leading periodicals and papers are supplied here also. On and after Nov. 1 it provides classes whereby the pupils may learn to become self supporting, or add to their knowledge, that they may be of greater assistance in the home.

The work of the club has always been along industrial lines. Believing that the home should be the centre of a woman's life, it has been the aim of the committee to provide class work that shall bear on home life.

This year the list of classes is as follows: Dressmaking, millinery, plain sewing, cooking and embroidery.

The fees for these classes are very small and are such as to deter no one from following out her desired line of work.

Any further information may be had of Mrs. Faxon, the superintendent, any evening from 7 to 9 after Oct. 1. Take the elevator.

Weavers in Borden's Mills Decide to Return to Work

FALL RIVER, Sept. 15.—The strike of a thousand weavers at the Fall River Iron Works cotton mills owned by M. C. D. Borden and the shutting down of the entire plant, employing five thousand operatives, ended today with the acceptance by acclamation by the weavers of the compromise offer of a five per cent. wage increase. The mills will open tomorrow, having been closed down since Monday for the first time in twenty-three years.

The difficulties of the Iron Works committee of the weavers' union last night. When the measure was brought before a mass meeting at 8:30 a. m. it slid scale agreement, which obtained in the other mills of the city but it was it is adopted without division and by felt for some time that an agreement might be reached. Matters reached an acute stage last week and at a meeting Saturday the 1000 weavers voted to strike. As very few appeared at the mills on Monday morning the management at once decided that it would be impossible to continue operations so the rest of the help was sent home.

During the two days, however, energetic measures were adopted toward a settlement and the five per cent. increase was submitted to the executive committee of the weavers' union last night. When the measure was brought before a mass meeting at 8:30 a. m. it slid scale agreement, which obtained in the other mills of the city but it was it is adopted without division and by felt for some time that an agreement might be reached.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

PAVING OF MERRIMACK STREET.

The street department has started the work of paving Merrimack street. Judging from the rate of progress made upon Bridge street, the storms of winter will be upon us before the paving of Merrimack street will be finished. No good paving job can be done with the frost in the ground.

SHALL WE HAVE ANOTHER CARNIVAL?

Whether we shall have another auto carnival may depend to a great extent upon the financial showing made by the committee in charge of the recent carnival. If the people of Lowell find that the auto club did the very best it could and met all its obligations to the public, then public sentiment will favor a repetition of the great auto races.

THE FLYING OMNIBUS.

An inventor in Paris has applied for a license to run a flying omnibus by which he is to transport merchandise and passengers. That is the first intimation the world has had of any proposition to use the flying machine as substitute for a railroad train or an express car. His invention may fall short of his claims but there is little doubt that in due time somebody will be running a flying omnibus.

TO PROTECT LETTER CARRIERS.

The postoffice department has issued an order to the effect that letter carriers will not be required to deliver mail at houses where vicious dogs are allowed to go at large. The families who keep such dogs will have the privilege of going to the postoffice for their mail. Other people who have to call at such houses will have to protect themselves as best they can. We never could see any justification for keeping vicious dogs except under proper restraint.

THE POLAR CONTROVERSY.

The controversy between Peary and Cook promises to divide public opinion as thoroughly as did the rival claims of Sampson and Schley over the battle of Santiago bay. It was Schley who said, "There are honors enough for all of us," and this seems to be the position of Dr. Cook; but Peary is selfish and obdurate. He wants the whole thing and is positively averse to allowing anybody to establish counter claims to priority in the discovery of the pole. Peary of course has spent many years in quest of the pole and it is natural that he should object to taking second place to a man who had little distinction in that line.

MEMORIAL TO G. T. ANGELL.

A beautiful fountain is to be erected in Lynn to honor the memory of the late George T. Angell. It will be paid for by popular subscriptions, and judging from the list of contributions already published, Lynn has a great many people who admired the work of Mr. Angell in behalf of the lower animals. His efforts through the organ of the Humane society were productive of much good and it is well that his memory should be honored for his self-sacrifice and the noble work he performed for the prevention of cruelty to animals.

THE TARIFF COMMISSION.

The tariff commission recently appointed, judging from its membership, will render more important service than was at first anticipated. The final settlement of the tariff can come only by having the whole question submitted to a tariff commission, preferably a tariff court vested with judicial power. This commission is not so constituted but, nevertheless, it is well qualified to investigate the underlying principles of the tariff, the workings of the present law, the inequity of some schedules and the inadequacy of some others. After determining by proper investigation the ultimate effect of certain schedules the commission will be prepared to decide tariff problems on a scientific basis. In this way the whole tariff question may be eventually taken out of politics so that the trusts and combines of the country will no longer be able to dictate whether the rates shall be high or low.

NEW USES FOR WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY.

Almost every day brings out some new proof of the value of wireless telegraphy in carrying messages where the ordinary methods are inapplicable. It was by the wireless that Peary sent his first message relative to the discovery of the North pole, and if the same system were applied in the exploration of the pole there would be no room for the controversy that rages between Peary and Dr. Cook.

Wireless telegraphy is to be used as a means of protection against forest fires in the forests of the northwest. When firs start under present conditions the telegraph poles and wires are burned down so that it is impossible to send word ahead to other towns and districts to beware of the danger. By the wireless method messages can be sent to all the adjacent towns and cities, announcing the progress of the dangerous forest fires. In this way organized efforts can be made to head the fire off and stop its progress. Thus life and property may be saved where resistance was impossible under the old method.

The time has arrived when every trans-Atlantic line of steamships should be equipped with wireless telegraphy. Between a line that is so equipped and one that is not, the public will patronize the former even though the cost be lighter.

SEEN AND HEARD

Officers and lawyers at this session of the superior court greatly missed the genial countenance of "Eddie" Kelly, the telephone boy at the court house, who was laid at rest last Saturday. While on his vacation a week or two ago "Eddie" caught cold and pneumonia set in with fatal results. "Eddie" was a most accommodating boy, and was always cheerful and willing.

Somewhere out west a woman had cold hands and just for that her husband got a divorce. If it was a case of cold feet it would be different but it seems to us that he might have stood for the cold hands. We would if she was all right every other way.

Said the doctor to the Esquimaux: "Do you think this is the pole?" "Don't know me," said the Esquimaux, "but me know she am a cold."

OVERWORK

Oh, he was the busiest person alive. He had an astounding proclivity for helping excitement about him to thrive.

By great and incessant activity. When a procession set forth on the street.

His personal aid he would lend to it. He hustled with swift and unwearying feet.

He had to go out and attend to it. The clang of a fire bell, however rare.

Awakened his soul instantaneous. When juvenile punsters angrily snote.

He gave advice extemporaneous. Each public disturbance he took to his care.

There was nobody else he could send to it.

Though hundreds of persons were sure to be there.

He had to go out and attend to it. The post that he held was a lucrative one.

With a firm that was kindly but sensible. The record that told of the work he had done.

Was, saving the least, reprehensible. In spite of his recognized knowledge and skill.

They decided there must be an end to it. He was finely equipped the position to fill.

But he didn't have time to attend to it. A man made the remark a few days ago that he didn't know which slight tortured him most, a woman leading a dog by a string or chain or a boy smoking a cigarette.

The fellow who is forever kicking about being "disputed" is the fellow who never meets the reporter half way and who is forever giving evasive answers and wrong impressions.

Did you ever try to drop one word from your limited vocabulary? If you didn't just try it.

You may always be sure that a wife

is well trained when you see her sitting in the rumble seat of an automobile, while her husband rides at ease with the chauffeur.

Don't sympathize with a man just because he tells you that he leads a dog's life. Some dogs are treated mightily well.

Anyway, if we are going to bet on this Peary-Cook race we'd like to know who has the pole.

A note of interrogation after the dash to the North pole. We insist upon it.

Would you be surprised to learn that Peary or Cook didn't get any farther than Davidson street?

He who goes to the North pole must then go south.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

"THE GIRL OF THE GOLDEN WEST."

Among several other characters that have rarely, if ever, been put upon the stage, David Belasco's "The Girl of the Golden West," which comes to the Opera House Thursday, Sept. 16, numbers one that is especially adapted to the becoming of the absolute perfection with which it is drawn. This character is Billy Jackrabbit, an Indian hanger-on of the camp. Because he is true to life, Billy Jackrabbit is anything but the "boiled red man." His one ambition is to escape without labor, and in the least troublesome way. The Indian is present in the cast of characters because Billy Jackrabbit is a real Indian, and not the hero-worshipper's ideal aborigine, and the picture he draws is in some ways a shock to those whose ideas of Indian character have been taken from books in which he is credited with numerous virtues.

"THE WORLD AND A WOMAN."

"The World and a Woman," by Joseph Byron Totten, author of numerous dramatic successes, will be the play presented by Earl Burgess with a cast of metropolitan favorites, at the Opera House Sept. 17 and 18. Mr. Burgess has found it necessary to place seven companies in the field in order to adequately cover the theatrical territory where the demand for "The World and a Woman" is particularly insistent.

LOUIS MANN.

Mr. Louis Mann, in his great success, "The Man Who Stood Still," comes to the Opera House soon. Mr. Mann's own role is that of a typical Bourbon—an old Swiss jeweler, who refuses to part with the tide of progress, and at length, is left behind in business, in thought, in social life and even in his domestic relationships. The role is described as being a well-liked actor, ample opportunity for the display of versatility that has long been asserted in his by himself and his many warm admirers. He comes with a company containing some well-known players. Among them is that delightful character actress, Matilda Cottrell, for so long director of the once famous McNeill Opera-Comique company. Emily Ann Wellman, one of the season's successes, Lillian Smoot, Louis Hendricks, H. A. Lamotte, John Charles, Leslie Bassett, Edward Maynard, and Frank Julian are others.

THE TRAVELING SALESMAN

Henry B. Harris will present James Forbes' comedy hit, "The Traveling Salesman," in this city at the Opera House soon. Mr. Forbes will be remembered as the author of "The Chorus Lady," which is universally regarded as one of the best entertainments of its kind ever seen on the stage. His latest effort more than duplicates the success made by "The Chorus Lady," which should insure a treat to the patrons of the house.

ROSE STAHL

A well-known New York critic characterized Rose Stahl's portrayal of the role Patricia O'Brien in James Forbes' comedy, "The Chorus Lady," as follows: "As great as Ward's 'Music Master,' Mrs. Carter's 'Zaza,' and Mr. Mansfield's 'Chevalier.' The character is one of many unusual qualities, and as played for

Who is Coming to Aid
Dr. Cook

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—One of the most ardent supporters of Dr. Frederick A. Cook in the contention that he reached the North pole is Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer, who was first to sail through the northwest passage. Amundsen is coming to America and will aid his countryman in that other Arctic expedition in the event that Dr. Cook's achievement is investigated by the geodesic survey or some geographical society.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

Among the many features of the "School Boys and Girls" act at Hathaway's theatre, this week, is a real live base ball game, in which the nine girls and boys represent a team on one side and the audience on the other. Balls are thrown into the audience from the stage, with the boys and girls as the pitchers and catchers. This feature of the week's act, known as "The Young Comic Opera" is good. Miss Lillian Gelm, as "Sassy Little," is a cute little school girl. Frank Allen is the "Tony Marquette." He sings "My Cousin Caruso," and the Gordon Brothers sing and dance "By the Light of the Silvery Moon."

perable Risley act open the bill in a startling manner, and Rockway and Conway in a bit of everything prove interesting. Good motion pictures close the entertainment.

Performances will be given every afternoon and evening during the remainder of the week, with special seats for women at the matinees.

STAR THEATRE

"The second change in the program at the Star Theatre thus far this week became effective today, when all new motion pictures were shown. Tomorrow there will be a new talking picture and new illustrated songs, while on Friday there will be another complete change of motion pictures.

"The Romance of a Stranded Actress" is the talking picture theme, and it is one of the prettiest stories ever depicted in motion pictures. Don't fail to see it.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

The patrons of the Academy of Music are being treated, among other features, to a novel sketch, "Eddie and Mae Shaw, in 'The Messenger Boy and the Maid.' Their work is of the rapid fire order and the triple buck dancing a novelty. Frank Carman exhibits wonderful control over the rolling hoops and his clever manipulation of double baton swinging is remarkable. Miss Caludia Bessette sings illustrated songs, "Travellettes" views of the world and a reels of the latest moving pictures complete a most excellent program. Tonight the amateur contest will take place and the management has secured a large entry list of the best available talent in this vicinity. Roach and Hart appear in a character sketch, "Absurdity." Beltrah and Beltrah are seen in "The Musical Dairy."

THEATRE VOYONS

Following the great pictures of the first night, crossing the English channel the Theatre Voyons will present a series of motion pictures taken in the Arctic regions. These pictures will give a very good idea of the region in which Cook and Peary traveled many miles and incidentally show how the game is hunted there. There will be a pleasing variety to the bill as several other strong pictures are booked as well as some very laughable comedies. There will also be two illustrated songs sung by Lowell's best soloists, Jack Manchester and May Whitley.

SNAPSHOTS AT HARRIMAN FUNERAL: FIVE OF HIS BUSINESS ASSOCIATES

ARDEEN, Sept. 15.—Prominent among the few business associates of the late Edward H. Harriman, who attended his funeral were the five men in the accompanying group. They are: No. 1, Jacob H. Schiff; No. 2, Marvin Hughitt; No. 3, L. E. Loree; No. 4, John W. Sterling; No. 5, Julius Kruttschnitt. These men, with Judge Robert S. Lovett, now have practically in charge the vast affairs of the dead financier. The future plan of operating his railroads is not known at present to any one, not even these men who were his close associates in life. It is known that Mr. Harriman's affairs were in perfect shape, but the independent and collective operation of the lines which he controlled and those lines in which he held minor interests, is such a tremendous undertaking that the problem probably will not be worked out for many months.

from which it sprang. There has never been a banquet in the city perhaps at which a body of men sat that was more representative of the business and social life of the community.

And over and above all spread the interesting, but nevertheless potent personal presence of the one man who above all others in the country embodied the sentiment that has made of the United States the greatest nation in the world.

Enthusiastic and Brief

His greatness was never more fittingly typified than by the larger-hearted, genial president, who in one of his best and happiest veins made one of the most human speeches in his career—a speech that, catching the vast assemblage in the height of the spirit of enthusiasm that surged through the vast hall, brought forth round after round of hearty cheers and comments of amused and gratified satisfaction. Perhaps the almost unusual feature of the banquet in its entirety was the brevity of it. Although there were speeches by the governor, and of necessity by the president, other speeches were filled with brilliant quips and turns of speech that kept the enthusiasm of the diners to a fever pitch and still were brief enough to please everyone.

President Storror's Absence

Vice-President Rothwell in his opening speech of welcome, referred feelingly to the unavoidable absence of President James J. Storror, and called out the first cheers of the evening at the mention of Mr. Storror's name. Continuing he regretted Mr. Storror's untimely but unavoidable absence and wished for the speedy recovery of his son from the sickness that called him to his side in far-off Germany. In the absence of Mayor Hibbard, the local welcome fell to the task of Governor Draper, who in a brief, happy speech, extended to President Taft the welcome of the commonwealth, which, on account of the prolonged tariff discussion, had to be so long delayed.

2000 Cheer President

When President Rothwell came to the president's introduction he had hardly started to speak when the entire assemblage was on its feet, cheering and waving napkins in a vociferous welcome to the president. A moment of this and Mr. Rothwell's voice could be heard trying to say a few perfunctory words of introduction. He was allowed to remark that the next speaker on the program needed no introduction, when the crowd of enthusiastic diners, sensing the situation, was again on its feet cheering wildly the smiling president. For a full minute the cheering and waving of napkins was of a desultory nature, until J. Payson Bradley, jumping upon a table, called for three rousing cheers for the president.

Turns Joke on Draper

In a neatly turned reference to Governor Draper's story of his failure to catch the president to welcome him at the numerous church picnics and social affairs he was obliged to attend, the president laughingly said that in the most of the governor's notices might have been construed as being for personal political advancement but he did not know how they would be looked upon here in Massachusetts. Everyone quickly saw the point and Governor Draper rose and told the good natured ribbing that went with the general laugh that greeted the president's sally.

The president referred to the happy, though brief, vacation he had in Massachusetts and paid high compliments to the section along the North Shore with which he has become familiar through his many motor trips. He said he had endeavored to keep within the speed limit on his motor trips and was confident that he could convince any fair-minded judge of his innocence of wilful intent. He paid an indirect compliment to the Metropolitan Park system which he considered the North Shore landscape layout was an extension.

For Law's Enforcement

But the greatest round of applause that greeted the president during his speech was for his remarks on RHEUMATISM.

Don't suffer from Rheumatism. Write to box 16, Malden, Mass., for valuable information.

speech was at his emphatic reference to the just and impartial enforcement of the law to weak and strong alike. As the president thus uttered his periods on this subject, his judicial training and inherent respect for the law stood out all over him, and carried to the audience an impression that on law enforcement there was a man in the president's chair who, when the occasion arose, would be as unflinching as adamant.

The tariff to the making of which Governor Draper had paid the president a well-earned compliment, came in for but brief and hurried mention. President Taft said he would avoid that subject here in the east, as he needed some ammunition for his western speech-making tour.

Dreaded the Trip
A laughable incident that tickled the president almost as much as it did the diners was when in telling of his coming tour of the west the president hesitated when he came to the figures for the mileage and laughingly said that he thought it was 17,000 rather than 13,000 miles he would have to travel, and laughingly added that sometimes secretaries are great helps.

The president referred to the coming trip as one that he dreaded, yet at the same time anticipated with pleasure. It would give to the people of the country the chance to see the man whom they had chosen to act temporarily as the nation's executive. And it would also give him the opportunity of personally meeting multitudes of citizens and telling them the views of a responsible executive on important questions as against the views of honest but irresponsible critics.

The president said that some time ago he had been waited on by a committee of the chamber of commerce, headed by Frederick P. Fish, and asked to make an address at the dinner being in mind the endless amount of talking he would have to do on his western trip, he told the committee that he feared he would run out of material. To this Mr. Fish said that he would be glad to make only a commonplace speech.

Checking over his interpretation, the president said that he was making a commonplace speech, and if it did not hit the diners right they could not blame him, as he was only following out instructions of the committee.

As he warmed into his speech Mr. Taft departed from his humorous vein and spoke deeply and emphatically of the pertinent questions now before the country for solution. He put especial emphasis on the hope that the country might soon have a solid monetary policy and paid extended compliment to Senator Nelson Aldrich for his knowledge of and efforts for monetary reform.

ORDER OF RED MEN

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 15.—The Improved Order of Red Men in convention yesterday voted to establish a uniform capital tax in all of the states. Years ago to stimulate membership growth it was enacted that after a state attained 50,000 members, it should be taxed less than states with smaller membership. The question as to whether biennial or annual meetings of the order shall be held in the future has not yet been definitely settled.

RAISING AN ARMY

Former Lowell Man is Planning to Aid Greece

HAVERHILL, Sept. 15.—The Hellenic youths in Haverhill will soon be given an opportunity to show their patriotism for Greece.

If the plans of leaders in this state are carried out, Constantine Moustakias of Salem, formerly a Greek organizer in Lowell and Lynn, will visit this city to organize the entire Greek male population into an armed body, which in a few months will be ready to start to their fatherland and take part in the conflict between Greece and Turkey which, it is feared, will follow the political elections in Crete next March.

The movement is one of interest to the country over. As Mr. Moustakias said yesterday, it shows the love for Greece, which her American sons bear to their country.

"It appears that Greece is on the eve of war with Turkey," said he. "Next March the Cretans elect their officers, and if things are not just satisfactory Turkey will reject them and war is expected. It appears to the Greek consists that a greater portion of the Hellenic youths are in America, and it is to band them together and train them for actual warfare that we intend to bend our efforts from now on."

"What we intend to do in Haverhill is just what we have done in Lowell, Salem and Lynn, as well as Boston, where there is a large Greek population. The idea is to get the entire Greek people interested, form an army, provide them with weapons and drill them. It is one of the biggest movements in the country from a Greek standpoint."

"In Haverhill, I believe that there are about 1200 Greeks and in Newburyport and Amesbury almost as many more. We shall train them, have headquarters and provide some sort of daily recreation to stimulate the interest."

"I shall be in Haverhill again as soon as time will permit, and will then take hold of the matter more fully. I have come to the conclusion that the movement will work well in this state, as it seems to have in other states. I have no doubt that the governor will permit the men to carry weapons. We shall train the soldiers and then next March, in the event of war, we will be able to ship a big army to the scene of war, thereby adding, we believe, great strength to the Grecian force."

"We expect to have a mimic war and the territory, although not yet decided, will probably be in northeastern Massachusetts, not far distant from Haverhill, Lynn, Salem, Lawrence, Manchester, N. H., Lowell and Boston. Although we have not much time I feel sure that we can do something which will show our brothers in Greece that we are loyal to them."

"This is being carried on here because it would not be expedient for many of our countrymen to go to Greece and train there with the regular army." Mr. Moustakias is well known in this city, as about 12 years ago he kept a confectionary store on Merrimack street. Since then he has been graduated from Boston university and has risen to a high place of trust in the estimation of his fellow countrymen.

FERON REFUSES

To Return Without Extradition Papers

Henri Feron, the alleged murderer of Mrs. Flora Rivers, who was arrested in Megantic, P. Q., has now refused to come back to Lowell until formal extradition papers are issued. Deputy Wickham went to Megantic, Sunday felt that Feron would accompany him back to Lowell without any trouble, but yesterday he notified Acting Supt. Bozman that Feron had refused to go back without the formality of extradition papers.

District Attorney Higgins was notified at once and the papers will be made out with all speed, forwarded to Washington for official signatures and within 10 days it is expected that Feron will be on his way here.

DEATH OF WOMAN

To be Investigated by the
Town Officials

MILFORD, N. H., Sept. 15.—The authorities of Milford and Mount Vernon, a village near here, are investigating the death of Mrs. Mary Jane Dalton Boutwell, aged 59 years, wife of Harry Boutwell of Mount Vernon. By order of the town officials, the funeral, which was to have been held today from the rooms of a Milford undertaker, has been deferred to enable the medical referee to examine the body.

Mrs. Boutwell was found in bed in an unconscious condition last Saturday night by her husband. There was a long black bruise under the woman's ear, extending down the neck. Investigating further, Boutwell found part of his wife's set of false teeth outside the house near the doorstep. At the time the town officials understood that death was due to natural causes.

Yesterday Constable John Follanshee of Mount Vernon, who had been informed of the discoloration on the neck of Mrs. Boutwell, began an investigation. He came here and consulted Chief of Police James W. Ryan of Milford. Chief Ryan decided to refuse to permit the funeral today, and the medical referee and other authorities of Hillsborough county were notified.

It is reported that a man was seen near the Boutwell house Saturday afternoon acting peculiarly.

BIG AUTO RUN

RELIABILITY CONTEST FROM WASHINGTON TO BOSTON

Entries in the Frank A. Munsey Reliability contest closed Sept. 11th with 47 cars nominated to make the run from Washington to Boston and return, Sept. 21-25. The entry list exceeds that of this year's Glidden tour by seven, while the number of different makes is 32 as against 17 in the Glidden.

As this tour takes the contestants through all the principal cities of the east, including New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Albany, Hartford, Springfield and Atlantic City, automobile manufacturers have been quick to recognize the advantages of participation in the event. Seventeen of them have entered 1910 models, while ten automobile dealers and six private owners in various cities are also included in the lineup.

The competing cars will be run in six divisions, according to price, and there will be a trophy for the winner in each division, with a grand sweepstakes prize for the car making the most perfect score in any division. In addition, the entrance money will be divided among the six winning drivers.

JAMES J. HILL

Says That Agriculture Must be Developed

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Warning that the United States may soon cease to be an exporter of foodstuffs was given to the American Bankers' association yesterday by James J. Hill, chairman of the board of the Great Northern railway.

All through the address Mr. Hill sought to impress on the bankers delegates that future prosperity is to come in the development of agriculture rather than in an extension of foreign markets for manufactured goods. The speech was received with deep attention by the delegates. It followed an address by Lawrence O. Murray, comptroller of the currency, who emphasized the necessity of co-operation between the comptroller and the national bank examiners, and pointed out that the bank examinations have been raised from a perfunctory review to a systematic investigation by trained officers.

Earlier in the day in his annual address President George M. Rehnold declared in favor of a central bank with a capitalization of not less than $100,000,000 as a means of avoiding financial disaster similar to the panic of 1907.

The delegates were welcomed to Illinois and Chicago by Gov. Charles S. Deneen and Joseph T. Talbot, president of the Chicago Clearing House association.

A pause in the regular program of the day was made to permit Speaker Cannon to address the bankers and later the reports of the secretary and treasurer were read, showing the association in point of membership and financial standing to be in excellent condition.

Some criticism of the express companies acting in a dual capacity as bankers and common carriers was included in the report of the express companies and money order committee, which reviewed the course of the litigation by which the association is seeking to end the express companies from the banking field.

The resolutions adopted at the conference on the bill of lading subject on Monday, will be taken up later in the convention.

At the closing session of the convention of the National Association of Supervisors, resolutions were adopted favoring the plan of Comptroller Murray for co-operation between the state and national bank examiners, and a general discussion of financial questions was held.

While no definite announcement has been made, it is generally understood that the next president of the American Bankers' association will be Lewis E. Pierson, president of the Irving National bank of New York, now vice president of the organization.

BIG RAILWAY

WAS PURCHASED BY AMERICAN AMBASSADOR

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 15.—David E. Thompson, United States ambassador to Mexico, yesterday secured control of the Pan-American railway, a line extending from San Gerónimo, on the Tehuantepec National railway to Mariscal, a town on the Mexican-Guatemalan frontier. Ambassador Thompson did not make public the purchase price but said that he would have the controlling interest in the property, having secured for purchase $9,600,000 worth of the stock. The line, which is 244 miles in length, was formerly owned by Los Angeles and St. Louis capitalists.

It is said in railway circles here that the road will some day be a part of the greater Pan-American line which will afford a rail connection between the canal zone and the principal regions of the United States.

CHAS. F. McKIM

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Charles F. McKim, head of the firm of McKim, Mead & White, architects, died suddenly yesterday at his country home in St. James, Long Island, of heart disease. He had been in ill health for a year or more, but his death was unexpected.

Mr. McKim, who was 62 years old, was a graduate of the Lawrence Scientific school, Harvard, and of the École des Beaux Arts, Paris. He had received honorary degrees from Harvard, Bowdoin and other colleges.

Mr. McKim was a member of many societies, art commissions and clubs. He was a founder of the American Academy at Rome and a member of the National Academy. In 1903, King Edward awarded him a royal gold medal.

O'LEARY PUTS UP MONEY WANTED

The Veteran Pedestrian Deposits $100 Forfeit

"If any young man wants to walk with me," he'll find I'm as young as I used to be." Thus sang Dan O'Leary, the world's champion pedestrian as he walked into the Sun sanctum this morning and laid down $100 in the hands of the sporting editor's desk. Last Thursday at the Marathon run Mr. O'Leary said that he would walk six miles while any one of the Marathoners ran 10 miles for $500 a side or any part of it. Yesterday The Sun printed a letter from Charles E. Holske of Boston accepting Dan's challenge to the extent of $200, on behalf of some runners whom he has not named. Bright and early this morning O'Leary was in The Sun office with $100 as a forfeit to bind a match. "There's my forfeit for a match for $200, and he can make it $500 if he wants to. I'll cover the money," said Dan. Mr. Holske in his letter in The Sun intimated that Dan wasn't as good as he used to be and he wrote also: "Dan must be like old wine, improving with age." In reply Mr. O'Leary has this to say: "The old days Mr. Holske was one of the best short distance walkers in the world. But he has been in business many years and like the American business man he has given all this time and attention to business rather than to his stomach and his physical exercise and the result is he is growing old and thinks everyone else is. Too much attention to business at the expense of exercise pulls a man out too quickly. We have a striking example of the truth of this in the death of Hariman. I am now 66 years of age and I have vanity enough to claim that I can still walk six miles while a runner goes ten, and I am willing to give up $500 to have it proved that I'm wrong. Thirty-one years ago I won the Ashby cup in London in the first six days' go-as-you-please race ever run. I was the only American in the race and beat out a field of 20 Englishmen. I walked 520 1/2 miles in 112 hours and the second man completed an even 500 miles. Since then I have kept at it constantly and I never felt better in my life than I do today. I am not the fastest walker that ever stepped a mile, but I am a steady walker. I could do 14 miles in two hours easily in these days, while my friend Holske, who has now grown old and thinks I have, too, could go six miles in that time. Let him cover my money, make the arrangements and we'll see who is wrong?"

IN POLICE COURT

Brief Session With Several Sentences

This morning's session of the police court was comparatively short, all of the cases having been disposed of in less than fifteen minutes.

The case of Frank Levesque, charged with illegally keeping liquor in Dracut, came up on continuance, and was placed on file with the understanding that he would not further engage in illegal traffic of liquor.

The case of John Paul, charged with assault and battery, was continued till tomorrow.

PARK DEPARTMENT WANTS MORE FOR SUNDRIES

Move to Change the Name of Dracut Street Held Up on Motion to Reconsider

The common council meetings have been renewed. The first regular meeting since the summer vacation was held last night and about the first question that councilmen asked each other was: "How did you like the municipal outing?" Several department reports for the month were read and placed on file. A joint communication from Agent Bates of the board of health, stating that there was no money remaining to the credit of office sundries in his department, was referred to the committee on appropriations. The matter of transferring $1000 from the labor account to the sundries account in the park department was referred to the committee on appropriations. A joint resolution that Dracut street be laid out and accepted, and that the name be changed to Kelly street, was read, and there was opposition to the change. Councilman Gookin said he had canvassed the street and had found much opposition to the change of name. Councilman Genest was for changing the name of the street. Councilman Gookin moved and Councilman Peary seconded that that section of the resolution providing for the changing of the name be stricken out. The vote was six in favor and seven against and the question then came on the passage of the resolution and it passed by a vote of 14 to 7. Councilman Gookin moved reconsideration at the next meeting. An order asking for the appropriation of $1000 for raising and repairing sidewalks on the North common was referred to the committee on appropriations.

JUDGE HADLEY

Gone to Ipswich to the Funeral of Friend

Judge Samuel P. Hadley, of the police court, went to Ipswich, Mass., this morning to attend the funeral of the late Robert Gilmor, of that place. Mr. Gilmor and the judge were of the same age and the friendship formed while attending the district school proved to be a lasting one.
SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL.
The regular meeting of Court Merchants, Foresters of America, was held last night. Chief Ranger James J. Spillane, presiding. Patrick J. Mahoney submitted a report of the supreme court convention recently held at Toledo, O. The anniversary committee reported that the arrangements for the banquet which will be held at Associates hall on Wednesday evening, Sept. 29, are now nearly completed and the committee will distribute a handsome souvenir to all the members who attend on that evening. Thomas Mooney and Thomas Kelley were chosen as the committee on souvenirs. Under the head of good and welfare interesting remarks were offered by Michael H. McDonough, Patrick Mahoney, John Barrett and Frank V. Kane. After the meeting the lecturer passed cigars, and an enjoyable entertainment was given by the Grafton Musical company.
Samuel H. Hines, judge, K. of P., met in regular session last night and passed on many important matters. D. D. Grand, Chancellor I. W. McArthur of Cambridge was present and talked interestingly on the work of the lodge, and he was followed by other members of the order. The list which partly of the season will be held Sept. 25 and arrangements were taken for an Old Maids' auction in the near future.
Ray State, colonel, I. O. O. F., met last night and transacted considerable routine business. It was decided to give the election of officers for the coming term on Oct. 12.
Mr. Zion Lodge, I. O. O. F., met last night and plans for the coming fall were discussed at length. The reports of the committee to have charges were quite encouraging. The program for the meeting next Tuesday promises to give good entertainment to the members. Interesting remarks were heard from several of those present.

NASHUA COUNCIL

Refused to Meet With the Board of Aldermen

NASHUA, N. H., Sept. 15.—The common council last night gave the mayor and the board of aldermen a surprise by refusing point blank to meet in joint convention on the matter of confirming appointments to the commission to revise the city charter. Mayor Eshed, after numerous delays, last night stated that he was ready to make the appointments under the act of the last legislature and called for a motion. When the message was read in the lower chamber Councilman Frank Hancock moved to refuse to meet the mayor and board. The motion was seconded by Councilman Thomas Callahan and carried by a large majority. Promptly upon receipt of the council's action the aldermen adjourned. Talking of the matter after the meeting Mayor Eshed characterized the action of the council as "peasant politics." The mayor was extremely indignant and charged the council with lack of courtesy. Some of the members declared that the mayor and aldermen last year refused to meet the council on a similar matter. The mayor had prepared a new list of names for the commission, having considered the matter since Alderman Proctor called his attention at the last meeting to the fact that Charles H. Burke and Ralph A. Arnold were ineligible because of their being cemetery trustees. In the places of these two he selected Dr. A. W. Shea and Nelson S. Whitman, both democrats, making the full list include them and Col. W. D. Swart, Burton Crankshaw, Harry P. Gentry and Alvin J. Lueker. The mayor believes that this list includes the best selections possible, and he suggests that if the council continues to refuse to meet the aldermen, his selections will go to work and prepare a charter and report to the next legislature according to the act and not wait for confirmation. The councilmen state that the mayor took his time in making the appointments, and that they only wish time to consider the matter. In the council the new bridge over the Merrimack river met considerable opposition. The aldermen passed an ordinance restricting travel over the present bridge, and the council concurred in a divided vote, but when the recommendation of the board of public works for a new bridge was read it was reported that the bridge would cost $37,000, and the councilmen were of the opinion the present one repaired would answer. The aldermen voted to lay out Nangle street, after viewing it. The layout will be according to the old plan, and will cross the railroad, no counsel for the railroad being present to oppose it last night at the hearing.

FELL FROM CAR

Patrick Cannon' Was Severely Injured

Patrick Cannon of 712 Suffolk street was taken to St. John's hospital last night, suffering from a slight abrasion on the forehead caused by falling from a Nashua electric car. He was standing on the running board of the car and became frightened at the sudden flashing of a headlight on another car and either fell or jumped from the car. It is not thought that his injury will prove serious.

COM. PEARY

SAYS THAT COOK WAS NOT AT POLE

BATTLE HARBOR, Labrador, Sept. 15.—By wireless telegraph, Capt. N. E. Peary, Sept. 15.—Commander Peary yesterday afternoon answered a number of questions asked him by the Associated Press correspondent. "Was Dr. Cook at the pole?" was the first query, to which the commander replied: "Cook was not at the pole on April 21, 1908, or at any other time. I make this statement advisedly, and at the proper time will back it up with proof." "Were you surprised, Commander Peary, on returning to Labrador, to learn that Dr. Cook had reported reaching the pole, or had anything happened before your return to cause you to anticipate this event?" was next asked. "I heard it in New York that Dr. Cook was going to bring the pole," replied the commander. "Is it true that you opened letters or documents having reference to this point?" "No," he responded emphatically. "Did Harry Whitney make any important statements to you about another polar expedition?" "He made no statement," said Commander Peary. "He is on the relief schooner Franke now, and is probably shooting bear on the western coast." "What difference is there to be found at the North pole; are there birds, fish or any animals there?" "When I was there it was not the season for birds. I do not know if there are fish in the Polar seas at that spot. There are no animals at the pole." Commander Peary declined to discuss the charges that he took supplies at Etah belonging to Dr. Cook, but he declared that Captain Moses Bartlett could not throw any light on this point because he had not been in Greenland since Peary went there last. Rudolph Franke had begged pitifully to be taken out of Greenland. He was suffering from scurvy. Speaking about the unexplored area in the Polar regions, Commander Peary said that there were 1,000,000 square miles of unknown territory between the pole and Behring straits previous to his expedition. He had not yet figured out by how much that quantity was reduced. Asked with regard to the purple snow fields at the pole, the hummocks and crevices approaching the pole, Commander Peary said: "That is a range of information that I do not care to impart now." Speaking of the depth of water, he said that he had run out 1500 fathoms of line without reaching bottom within five miles of the pole. "We took soundings from Cape Columbia to the pole," he continued, "which gives a cross section of that part of the floor of the Arctic ocean. The soundings were from 10 to 20 miles apart." "What was the thickness of the ice and the temperature of the atmosphere?" he was asked. "I had no means of measuring the ice, that was heavy; I do not care to tell the temperature." Bearing on the Cook controversy, Commander Peary was asked: "Are the Eskimos who were with Dr. Cook in his dash to the pole on your ship?" "No, but I talked to them." "Have you heard that any Eskimos were ever at the pole before yours?" "No, never. No indication that could be seen there would tempt them out on that sea of ice until I went there." They knew by experience the liability of the ice breaking up and carrying people to death. "Why did you not have a white witness at the pole?" "Because after a lifetime of effort I finally secured the honor for myself. A number of despatches addressed to Commander Peary at Chateau Bay, Red Bay and Blanc Sablon, dated Sept. 7 and 9, were received here only yesterday for delivery."

LOWELL HIGH

WILL NOT MEET HAVERHILL HIGH ON GRIDIRON

The schedule for the Lowell high school football team has been arranged, but strange to say does not include any games with the Haverhill high. Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill made up the triangular league which met with success for several years, but the exhibition put up by the Shoe City boys has not been up to the standard of late, and this year Haverhill decided to confine its efforts to attempting to defeat Lawrence.

Lowell's schedule is as follows:
Oct. 2—Wellington at Lowell.
Oct. 6—Nashua at Nashua.
Oct. 9—Nashua at Lowell.
Oct. 12—Methuen at Glen Forest.
Oct. 16—Boston Latin at Lowell.
Oct. 23—Boston English at Lowell.
Oct. 27—Leominster at Leominster.
Oct. 30—Newburyport at Newburyport.
Nov. 6—Dorchester at Lowell.
Nov. 12—Lawrence at Lowell.
Nov. 20—Open.
Nov. 25—Waltham at Waltham.
